Actress Bebe Neuwirth Receives Second Emmy For Acting on "Cheers"

Princeton native Bebe Neuwirth received her second consecutive Emmy Award on Sunday night as a supporting actress in the television comedy, Cheers.

She was cited for her role as the uptight psychiatrist, Dr. Lilith Sternin-Crane, who is married to the other psychiatrist on the program. A nine-year-old NBC comedy set in a bar, Cheers won its fifth Emmy, television's highest award, as a comedy series, and in addition garnered awards for Kirstie Alley for best comedy actress and for James Burrows as director, in addition to Ms. Neuwirth's award.

In 1986, Ms. Neuwirth won a Tony Award for featured actress in a musical in the reproduction of Sweet Charity that played on Broadway that year. In the 15 years since

Jury Begins Deliberations In Trial of Gerald Geffrard

The jury of seven women and five men hearing the three-week stabbing trial of Gerald Geffrard began deliberations at noon Tuesday.

By 4:15 Tuesday, minutes before they were to retire, they had not yet reached a decision. The 22-year-old Geffrard, a resident of Witherspoon Lane, has been charged with breaking into the Oakland Street apartment of Anne Woods on June 7, 1990, and stabbing her in the left arm and side with a knife while she was in her bathtub.

Both Assistant Prosecutor Edward C. Bertucio Jr. and Geffrard's Public Defender, Robin Kay, gave their closing summations to the jury Monday. Because Miss Woods' assailant wore a mask and because she admitted in her testimony in

Deer Committee Recommendations Include Lift on Shotgun Ban and Education of Public

A bare quorum of the Environmental Commission unanimously voted last Thursday to forward to Township Committee several recommendations formulated by the ad hoc deer committee to reduce the deer population.

They include lifting the ban on shotgun hunting in the Township for three days in December and three days in January during the extended deer season, when hunters are allowed to shoot deer of either sex. Along with this proposal, which is likely to cause the most furor and concern, are several other recommendations.

The Environmental Commission will re-submit to Township Committee a letter it sent to Committee in February, 1990, when Kate Litvack was mayor, requesting that Committee look into the possibility of allowing hunting in some of its public parks. At the time, Committee took no action on the request, nor did it respond to the letter, which specified some 342 acres.

The Mountain Lakes Nature Preserve, totalling about 75 acres, is one of the areas the committee had in mind; a woodland area along Stony Brook behind Puritan Court is another. The deer committee would also like Township Committee to petition the Mercer County Freeholders for permission to allow hunting in some form in Herrontown Woods, which is a county park.

Opening more private land to hunting — bow hunting or shotgun — is another goal of the deer committee. There is a bow hunting program now in place on about 1,000 of the Township's 10,880 acres: The number of deer killed was minimal the first year and has grown to 115 deer reported to have been killed last year, according to John Kuser, chairman of the deer committee.

Mr. Kuser also reported that 176 deer were killed in deer/car collisions in 1990, down from the high of 200 two years ago. He noted that the recent survey of Township residents indicated that respondents favored shotgun hunting over bow hunting by a margin of two to one.

Mr. Kuser said the survey also indicated that 35 percent of the Township residents who answered it were in favor of all the listed alternatives for reducing the herd: shotgun and bow hunting on private as well as public lands.

He told the Environmental Commission and the audience at a special meeting last Thursday at noon that the survey showed that there had been a change in public opinion on hunting deer since the ad hoc committee was constituted by former Mayor Winthrop Pike.

"We decided to bring back shotgun hunting on certain days," Mr. Kuser continued. "Not during buck season, but on the special permit days when it is legal to take a deer of either sex. This would give the message that we are not catering to trophy hunters but are doing this for the express pupose of deer population control."

The six days are December 18, 19 and 20, all weekdays, and January 17, 18 and 25, a Friday and two Saturdays. In response to a question from

Sexual Assault Case Expected to Be Tried After Lengthy Delay

The case against Manuel Morales, 47, a Spanish teacher at Princeton High School arrested last November and charged with sexually assaulting a male student over a three-year period, is expected to be heard by a Middlesex County Grand Jury within the next four to six weeks, according to Caroline Meuly, head of the County's Sex Crimes and Child Abuse Unit.

Mr. Morales, a Kingston resident, was arrested November 21, 1990, and charged by Middlesex County authorities with aggravated sexual assault, criminal sexual assault, and criminal coercion. He was released almost immediately, after posting $50,000 bail in the form of a property bond.

The delay in presenting the Morales case to the Grand Jury has to do with the volume of cases, said Ms. Meuly. "We are a small specialty unit, and we present all our own cases to the Grand Jury," she said. "There are a tremendous number of cases. We hope to have either a resolution or an indictment within four to six weeks."

she graduated from Princeton High School in 1976, she has compiled an impressive list of credits on stage and in films as well as television, and a reputation for comedy.

Highlights include three years with the international touring company of Chorus Line, roles in Bob Fosse's Little Me and Dancin'; a supporting role in the movie Green Card, with Gerard Depardieu and Andie Macdowell, as well as her role in Cheers, which she has held for several years.

Ms. Neuwirth has recently completed filming a movie called The Paint Job on location in Wisconsin. She plays the female lead in this movie, which she describes as a black comedy. She will also appear in Cheers again this season, and has been filming those episodes. In between, she took part with another woman and two men in a cabaret called "Cabaret Verboten," sponsored by the Los Angeles Art Museum in connection with an exhibition of "degenerative" art that was forbidden by the Nazi government in the early 1930s.

Morales

Ms. Meuly added that dismissal of the charges against Mr. Morales was not an option.

In early December, the School Board suspended Mr. Morales with pay. His annual salary is $53,952. At the time, Board President Joel Cooper said that the suspension would be made without pay if Mr. Morales were indicted on the charges against him.

The alleged sexual encounters took place between 1986 and 1989 at Mr. Morales' home, according to Ms. Meuly. He is alleged to have been able to maintain the relationship with the student by threatening to tell immigration authorities about his family and have them deported if he refused to have sex with him.

Threots Prompted Report

Mr. Morales, who has been with the Princeton system for 23 years, is alleged to have verbally threatened the student several weeks before his arrest. According to Ms. Meuly, these threats prompted the victim to report the alleged sexual contacts to South Brunswick police.

Students of Mr. Morales at Princeton High School were taught by several substitute teachers last year. A new Spanish teacher, Michael Carlo, has been hired and will teach at the high school this year.

Question of Consolidation Will be on Nov. Ballot

The necessary number of signatures have been gathered in the Borough, and the question of whether a commission to study the consolidation of Princeton Borough and Princeton Township will appear on the November ballot.

When Borough Council failed to approve an ordinance placing the question on the ballot, supporters of the study commission were forced to take the petition route. They have raised the 266 signatures necessary to assure that the issue will be put before the electorate.

Township Committee voted unanimously and with little discussion in early May to place the consolidation question on the ballot.

Borough and Township residents will have the opportunity to vote in November on whether a commission should be formed to study merger of the two Princetons. Also included on the ballot will be the names of five persons in the Borough and five in the Township who will serve on the Commission.

The five Borough candidates for the Joint Municipal Consolidation Study Commission are Van Zandt Williams Jr., Miriam G. Landau, Roger Martindell, Corinne Kyle, and Minnie L. Craig.

Township candidates are Donald M. Wilson, Linda L. Mather, Richard V. Sinding, Dean W. Chace, and Norman Glickman.

Franks in Your Future? Borough Must Respond

A request to operate a hot dog cart near the kiosk on Palmer Square is waiting for an answer from the Borough.

John Tzovolos of the Athenian Restaurant has asked for permission to operate the pushcart from 11 to 6 in the winter and 11 to 8 in the summer.

Borough Seeks High Court Ruling In 1986 Motorcycle Death Case

The suit involving the parents of a motorcycle driver, killed five years ago while being pursued by Borough police, and Princeton Borough may reach the state Supreme Court.

In an unusual move prior to a trial, attorneys for the Borough have filed a request for an appeal from the Supreme Court, asking the court to dismiss claims by the parents of the victim, Mark Kollar, that police conspired to cover up their actions and that their son's constitutional rights, both state and federal, were violated.

In their five-year battle to have their charges heard before a jury, the parents, Elmer and Patricia Kollar contend in a wrongful death civil suit that two Borough officers acted in a reckless manner when they pursued their son down Alexander Street on May 1, 1986. Mark Kollar's cycle left the roadway on a curve near the Alexander Street bridge and became airborne. He was crushed when the cycle landed on top of him. The Kollars further charge that the police then attempted to cover up their actions by tampering with tape conversations between Borough and Township police and police dispatchers that contain apparent contradictions concerning time and distances.

A year ago, Mercer County Superior Court Judge Andrew Smithson threw out the federal claims but allowed the Kollars to pursue both state claims and gross negligence by police. Then in December, Borough attorneys tried to argue that the same standards should apply to both state and federal claims, hoping that Judge Smithson would throw out the state claims, too. In a ruling in June, Judge Smithson not only retained the state claims, he reinstated the federal one.

Now it is up to the state Supreme Court to decide this tortuous case. If it chooses to hear the Borough's appeal, it must then decide whether to uphold Judge Smithson's ruling to keep both state and federal civil rights violations in the case; if it agreees, the case will be heard by a jury.

If the top court overrules Judge Smithson's decision, it could then dismiss the Kollars' suit.

Right now, Borough Director of Community Development Frank Slimak is waiting to find out from the Borough attorney whether jurisdiction in this matter belongs to Mayor and Council or to the Zoning Board of Adjustment.

Mr. Slimak said that, if it turned out to be a zoning matter, the hot dog stand would be prohibited under land use law. A variance, however, could be requested.

Should the question end up in the jurisdiction of Mayor and Council, the future of Mr. Tzovolos' hot dog stand will lie with a governing body that has generally rejected mobile food operations.

Exceptions have been made for special events, such as Communiversity, and for a produce stand operated last year by the Stony Brook-Millstone Watershed Association.

The Palmer Square property is owned by Collins Corporation. Collins' Jerry Berner favors the food cart, "if it is operated properly." He noted that the kiosk used to sell hot dogs, and they were very popular with tenants of One Palmer Square.

"I think it would serve a real purpose if it is managed right," he said, "with no debris and if we don't have 200 hot dog carts in the Central Business District."

Township Resident Hurt In Fall from Boulders

Nineteen-year-old Martin P. Kinney of 384 Ewing Street was hospitalized Saturday afternoon for injuries he received, after he fell while hiking in a wooded area near Cradle Rock off a section of Province Line Road between Stuart and Cherry Hill Roads.

Township police report Mr. Kinney fell about 20 feet while climbing on some boulders. A Princeton First Aid Squad ambulance transported the victim to Princeton Medical Center where he was admitted shortly before 4 p.m. A hospital spokesman on Monday described his condition as satisfactory.

Mr. Kinney had been hiking and climbing with two friends in the rugged terrain when he apparently slipped and fell from the rock. His companions made their way from the wooded site and called police. Hopewell police were also called to assist.

The portion of the Province Line Road where the accident occurred has not been open to traffic for a number of years.

Library Closing

The Princeton Public Library will be closed Friday for an asbestos abatement project and the replacement of the front sidewalks that are part of the Witherspoon Street project. The Library will re-open on Tuesday, September 3, after the Labor Day holiday. Books may be returned in the bookdrops by the Library flag pole. Please do not put video tapes and other audiovisual items in the bookdrops.

The suspect was described as wearing a red-flowered matching shirt and shorts.

The previous day, a 15-year-old Township youth was arrested at the CVS Pharmacy on Nassau Street where he allegedly tried to shoplift a bottle of hair coloring worth about $4.

The youth was seen by the store manager who called police. He was later turned over for processing to the Borough juvenile officer.

Trenton Teen Is Charged In Assault and Robbery

A 19-year-old Trenton resident, Anthony Simpson, has been charged by police here with robbery and aggravated assault stemming from an incident last June 19 in the Borough.

Simpson was arrested Friday at Borough police headquarters where he had been requested to appear. Charged as a result of an investigation conducted by Det. Ralph Terracciano, Simpson was processed and later released, pending an initial appearance September 9 in Borough court.

According to Lt. Charles Davall, a 20-year-old Princeton resident was walking in the evening near the intersection of John and Clay streets when he was approached by two black males who demanded money. When the two suspects learned the victim had none they struck him in the face and fled.

The victim, who, police say, no longer lives in the area, had

3 Borough Stores Hit By Resident Shoplifter

A 31-year-old Borough resident has been charged by Borough police with shoplifting clothing worth more than $600 from three Borough stores in less than two hours last Tuesday afternoon.

The suspect, Shashikal Maansingh of 29 Moran Avenue, allegedly stole $375 worth of clothing from J. McLaughlin, 17 Witherspoon Street; $220 in clothing from Landau's, 114 Nassau Street, and items worth $126 from the Kismet Boutique on Hulfish Street. All of the items have been recovered by police and returned to their owners.

At hearing in Borough Court Monday, Ms. Maansingh's case was adjourned when she applied for a public defender.

As related by Lt. Charles Davall, police were called at 2:35 by the boutique owner who witnessed the suspect stealing. She followed her to a Nassau Street restaurant before returning to her store where she called police and provided a description.

Det. Dennis McManimon, Sgt. Anthony Federico and Ptl. Joseph Wilhelm confronted the suspect in the restaurant and interviewed her. From their investigation and from an employee of another store in the area that had been alerted under the Merchants Alert Play, they were able to ascertain that Maansingh had left her bags of stolen clothing in another Nassau Street store for safe keeping. "She was loaded up. Her bags were filled," said Lt. Davall.

Blouse Is Stolen

Around 7:30 Friday evening, a black female in her 20s entered Benetton's on Hulfish Street and walked out with a $19 blouse. "The item was there one minute and when the sales clerk turned her back the next it was gone," commented Lt. Davall.

to be treated at Princeton Medical Center for a fractured eye socket and a lacerated lip. The second suspect is still being sought, Lt. Davall said.

Acting Strangely

On Friday evening shortly before 9, Alan Caulk, a 22-year-old Borough resident, entered Borough Hall and began acting strangely, Lt. Davall reported.

He was subsequently charged by police with being under the influence of drugs and taken to the emergency room at Princeton Medical Center where he was treated and released. Caulk has been charged with being under the influence of a controlled dangerous substance, "possibly LSD," said Lt. Davall. He faces a September 16 hearing in Borough Court.

Ex-Police Officer Dies When Airplane Crashes

Arthur F. Gallant, who was a member of the Borough police department for 29 years before retiring 15 years ago, was killed just before noon Friday when his single engine plane hit the ground just short of a runway at the Marlboro Airport.

Mr. Gallant, 71, was the only person on board when his Cessna 150 crasbed at 11:53, about a quarter of a mile short of the runway. According to Barry Trotter of the National Transportation Safety Board, Mr. Gallant had radioed the airport tower that be had a problem with the aircraft but he did not say what was wrong.

His two-seat plane was destroyed by the impact, but no one was injured on the ground. Authorities say they do not know Mr. Gallant's destination or where his flight originated.

On Monday, a flight investigator for the NTSB said the plane's engine had failed, after an examination revealed the propeller had stopped before the crash. Additional tests, he said, including an autopsy and toxicological reports, may provide additional clues as to what caused the crash.

Mr. Gallant retired on Au-

Princeton Regional Schools Open

The Wednesday, September 4, opening of Princeton Regional Schools will see an enrollment of about 120 more students than last year. Much of the increase — about 70 students — will be in the three elementary schools. The middle school population is expected to rise from 684 in the 1990-91 school year to 715 this year. Princeton High expects about 22 more students than last year.

If all goes as expected, this will be the last year that the fifth grade will be in the middle school. Johnson Park, which will be Princeton's fourth elementary school, is expected to reopen in September, 1992. At that time, the fifth grade will move back to the elementary schools.

Princeton Regional will also open without a contract with the Princeton Regional Administrators' Association (PRAA). Negotiations between the School Board and the union bogged down several months ago, and the State was asked to furnish a mediator. The mediator, however, will not be available until October, at the earliest.

New teaching staff includes Jennifer Baker, special education; Michael Carlo, Spanish; and Paula Jakowlew, half-time science, all at the high school; Susan Blohowiak, teacher of handicapped, and Denise Reid, kindergarten, Riverside; Donna Clovis, ESL, Riverside and the high school; Michelle Horowitz, communications handicapped; Marilyn Jardin, kindergarten; Christina Patterson, grade 1; Christine Pecket, grade 2; Susan Quiles, ESL/bilingual; Rosalinda Saltiel, grade 2, Littlebrook; Wendy Lucas, English, and Martin Smith, Spanish, middle school.

As announced earlier, those classes that drew fewer than an enrollment of eight were cancelled at the high school. There are, however, a few exceptions, including AP Physics. "Young people have prepared to take this over a number of years," explained School Superintendent Carol Choye.

Not being offered this year are Music Theory and Composition, three computer classes; Spanish 4A, and Biology 2. AP Biology 2, however, will be available.

Economics will not be offered at the high school because no teacher is adequately certified to teach it. German is being phased out as a result of several years of underenrollment, said High School Principal Marylu Coviello.

There will be no reduction in math or English courses. And both Latin 1 and Latin 2 will be offered. This is the first time in several years that enrollment has warranted having two Latin sections, said Ms. Coviello.

gust 1, 1976 as a sergeant from the Borough police force, a department he had joined on July 1, 1947. Current Police Chief Thomas Michaud recalled when be joined the force 25 years ago. "He was my first patrol sergeant," the chief said. "He broke me in on the force. He was a friend of mine.

"We got friendly over the years and I would still see him occasionally after he retired. Art was a good guy. We got along very well."

Born in Newton, Mass., Mr. Gallant was a member of the P.B.A. Local 130, Princeton Engine Company No. 1, Princeton American Legion Post 76 and Aircraft and Pilots Association of New Jersey. During World War II, he served in the submarine service with the U.S. Navy.

Husband of the late Helen McVeigh Gallant, Mr. Gallant is survived by a son, William of Princeton; a granddaughter Shelly Bellezza of East Brunswick; and a grandson, Montgomery, of Princeton.

Private funeral services were under the arrangements of the Kimble Funeral Home, 1 Hamilton Avenue. Memorial contributions may be made to the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad, P.O. Box 529, Princeton, 08542.

Musical Items, Costumes Are Stolen from Van

Seven musical instruments plus some costumes, worth a combined $5,800, were stolen last week from a Borough resident's van while it was parked overnight in the Park Place municipal lot.

three guitars, a bass amplifier, synthesizer, microphone and some multi-colored costumes described by police as Sgt. Pepper Band type clothing. A vent window was forced open sometime between 10 Friday evening and 9:15 the next morning to gain access to the van.

A tool box containing assorted tools worth $300 to $400 was reported stolen last week from the gym manager's office in Dillon Gym on the University campus. There was no forced entry, said police, who added the tools were the property of the University.

A $150 Black & Decker power saw has been stolen from an apartment on Nassau Street where the victim, police said, left it unattended. It was taken sometime between July 1 and last Wednesday, the day it was reported.

A 10-speed Murray bicycle plus its lock and chain were stolen last week from outside the Engineering Quadrangle building. The victim, a Princeton University female student, valued the bike at $104.

A thief removed the front wheel of a Trek 800 bicycle while it was left Monday in the 4th entry of Spelman Hall on campus. Police report the rear wheel had been locked to the frame.

A contractor doing some work on campus discovered last week that someone had attempted to remove the battery from his Chevy pickup truck which was parked in the Princeton Theological Seminary lot. The bungled attempt, however, caused an estimated $350 in damage.

Stolen Car Switch

A car thief upgraded his transportation last week.

First he drove an 1984 Toyota, which he had stolen in Trenton, to the Hibben Apartments lot off Faculty Road where he dumped it then drove off in a gray 1988 Mazda 626 valued at $5,400. The owner reported his car missing Friday evening and, as yet, it has not been recovered, police said.

In another Hibben lot theft, three tires valued at $70 each were removed from a 1987 Mitsubishi while the owner was away during a nine-day period. Police report the thief had jacked the car up and placed cement blocks under the axles.

A Jeep Wagoneer and a Jeep Wrangler, both parked in the owner's driveway on Hemlock Circle, were rifled last week. Both cars were unlocked, police said.

Taken were an $800 cellular phone, two AM/FM cassette stereos valued at $350 each and a $250 pair of sunglasses. Township Lt. Anthony Gaylord cautioned car owners if they have removeable type radios, CDs or stereos in their cars, to remove them.

A person working at a bouse under construction on Pretty Brook Road reported the overnight theft of his T-square, keyhole saw and some sand. Combined valued of the items was less than $50.

Clay St. Resident Fined In Criminal Court Here

In Borough criminal court Monday, Lucinda T. Washington, 23 Clay Street, was fined $75 and $30 to the Violent Crime Compensation Board on each of three charges of theft, trespassing and damage to property. A 60-day sentence to the Mercer County Workhouse was suspended. Two additional charges were dismissed at the state's request.

Giles C. Anderson, 36 Scott Avenue, Princeton Junction, was fined $275 and $30 VCCB for resisting arrest. Charges of trespassing and harassment were dismissed on a state's motion.

In Borough traffic court, Grant C. Gooder, 385 Cherry Valley Road, was fined $65 for disregarding a stop sign. He paid $30 each on two other charges of allowing a passenger where prohibited and no helmet while operating a moped.

Ella L. Kidd, 11 Sbirley Court, paid two $30 fines for unregistered vehicle and no insurance card in possession. Thomas E. Kehler, 3 Jill Drive, Lawrenceville, also paid $30 for failure to yield to a pedestrian in a crosswalk.

In Township court last week, Brett A. Penrod, 19 Merson Lane, Plainsboro, was fined a total of $395 and lost his license for six months for driving while intoxicated.

Kenneth 1. Hyman, 244 Pleasant Valley Road, Titusville, paid $65 for speeding.

Mayor Sigmund, Others Honored by Governor

The late Borough Mayor Barbara Sigmund and two other Princeton residents are among 14 New Jerseyans who will receive the 1991 Governor's Awards. The awards are presented for outstanding achievement and distinguished service, and are the highest honor New Jersey can bestow on its citizens. The announcement was made Friday at the State House rotunda by Gov. Jim Florio.

Dudley Carlson, director of the Public Library's children's department, will receive the Albert Einstein Education

Barbara B. Sigmund
"Wit, Charm, and Grace"

Award at Governor's Award ceremonies to be held at Alexander Hall on September 19.

Michael Graves, world-renowned architect and a professor at Princeton University, will receive the Walt Whitman Creative Arts Award.

Mrs. Sigmund, who died last year at the age of 52, will posthumously receive the Woodrow Wilson Public Service Award for a life "dedicated to the ideal of public service."

"Her wit, her charm, and her grace in public office became hallmarks in a career dedicated to justice and fairness," said Gov. Florio. "She is missed in many quarters in this State, but she will never be forgotten."

The Governor's citation refers to Mr. Graves as one of the "most prestigious of American contemporary architects and as the founder of the post-modern movement."

Mrs. Carlson will be honored for her "innovative efforts to meet the needs of children and the community, including an afterschool program and a program to boost reading skills."

Former Gov. Thomas H. Kean began the awards program five years ago. They are given annually to leaders in various fields and carry no monetary prize.

Sovereign Bancorp Buys Nassau Savings & Loan

Sovereign Bancorp Inc., Reading, Pa., has purchased Nassau Savings and Loan Association, the Princeton-based thrift that failed in March, 1990, and was taken over by the Resolution Trust Company.

Sovereign, the parent company of Penn Savings Bank and Yardley Bank for Savings, paid $1.5 million. It acquired Nassau deposits totaling $160 million.

The name of the bank will stay the same and there will be no change of account numbers, said Jay S. Sidhu, Sovereign's president and chief executive officer.

According to Mr. Sidhu, Sovereign will operate the five Nassau Savings offices in the Princeton market area as a division of its Penn Savings Bank subsidiary.

The sale of the deposits left Resolution Trust with some $80 or $90 million in loans from Nassau Savings to package and sell, according to Howard Brooks, a spokesman for the RTC. The Sovereign acquisition was the first transaction of the thrift's holdings that the RTC completed.

Sovereign was rated the 20th best-performing thrift in the country by U.S. Banker magazine in November 1990.

A Rough August

Two well-known Democratic women, both residents of Princeton Township, had a few bad breaks this month.

On August 10, Township Committeewoman Phyllis Marchand stopped to give directions while jogging on Cherry Hill Road. As the driver of the car backed up to get closer to Mrs. Marchand, she stepped back — right onto a huge stone.

Result: One broken leg and six weeks in a cast.

Mrs. Marchand had been jogging nine miles a day in preparation for the New York Marathon in November. Although unable to run this year, she has secured a deferment until the 1992 event.

Last Friday, Mrs. Marchand saw Lucinda Florio, wife of Gov. Jim Florio, who expressed sympathy with her plight.

On Saturday, at the beginning of the couple's vacation and while playing tennis with her husband at Drumthwacket, Mrs. Florio broke a bone in her left foot.

The foot was too swollen to apply a cast over the weekend. Doctors hope to put Mrs. Florio's foot in a cast on Wednesday, if the swelling goes down.

Two Lectures Included With Antique Show Sat.

The Princeton Summer Antique Show this weekend at the Marriott Hotel, Forrestal Village, will feature two lectures along with the show.

John-Peter Hayden Jr. will speak on "Fifth Avenue Palaces: Their Lords, Ladies and Entertainments" on Saturday at 10. His talk uses photographs and drawings from the second half of the 19th century to illustrate public and private buildings on Fifth Avenue, New York City, between 1850 and 1900. Highlights will include architectural views of the Fifth Avenue Hotel, a visit to Carolyn Schermerhorn Astor's picture gallery, where New York society's "400" gathered for her famous dinner parties and musicals, a formal dinner on horseback at Sherry's, and the opening ball at the Vanderbilt's 600 Fifth Avenue mansion.

John-Peter Hayden Jr.

Mr. Hayden is a writer, lecturer and curator as well as partner in Hayden & Fandetta, specialists in rare and unusual reference books on decorative arts.

Lawrence C. Goodhue will speak on "Connoisseurship in Fine Prints" Saturday at 2. Mr. Goodhue owns and operates a decorative antique print shop in Avon, Conn., with an extensive assortment of old botanical, architectural and animal prints. He holds a B.A. from Harvard and M.B.A. from Columbia.

Tickets to the lectures are $5 each and may be purchased at the gate or by calling 895-0101. Proceeds from both lectures will go to the American Cancer Society.

Search for Toxic Barrels Headed by Local Expert

In a jointly sponsored search between the Environmental Protection Agency and the International Wildlife Commission, Vince Capone, President of Marine Search and Survey (MSS) and Princeton Aqua Sports (PAS) has located a collection of radioactive, toxic cannisters, thought to be leaking.

According to Mr. Capone, between 1946 and 1970, the United States legally dumped 90,000 barrels of radiological wastes into the sea. The concrete-encased 55-gallon drums contained low-level contaminated laboratory equipment and clothing. Now, he says, there are indications that some of these barrels are corroding.

The contaminated barrels were located with a "side scan sonar" that bounces sound waves off the bottom of the ocean, creating images on a screen.

As certain marine organisms concentrate low-level radioactivity in their bodies, even mild amounts in sea water can be very dangerous, says Mr. Capone. Due to the threat of potential contamination, he has been contracted to provide a remote controlled mini sub, called a "Remotely Operated Vehicle" or ROV, which is expected to establish the precise locations of the cannisters through the use of a sonar and an underwater camera.

We believe that academic excellence later in life is largely due to an enthusiasm for learning inspired during the early years when a child's motivation is high and his/her chances for success are good. Students in our program in no way leave childhood behind for the sole purpose of intellectual growth. Rather, they celebrate the special gifts of their age: curiosity, flexibility, spontaneity, will, and wonder.

Mr. Capone, who provides basic scuba training to area residents, will offer educational presentations to schools, dive clubs, and conventions regarding this information.

He can be contacted at Princeton Aqua Sports, 924-4240.

Fall Registration Soon For Resource Center

The Family Resource Infant Center is holding mail-in registration through Friday, September 6. Walk-in registration will take place September 12 and 13 from 9:30 to noon.

More than 40 parenting groups and parent-child activity classes are planned. Several parent discussion/support groups are also scheduled. These are playgroup experiences for the children while mothers discuss topics of concern. The discussion will be led by a professional facilitator.

Workshops will cover such topics as toilet teaching, sleep, nutrition, sibling preparation, toys, play, and self-esteem.

Parent-child activities include "Simply Messy," "Make and Create," "Story Craft," and "Creative Movement."

Wednesdays will feature guest speakers from the community. These will include pediatricians, psychologists, social workers, and educators.

Call 924-2167 or 520-9113 Tuesday through Friday mornings for a current newsletter, or drop by. The Resource Center is located in the United Methodist Church, Nassau Street and Vandeventer Avenue.

Quaker Bridge Mall Hosts MDA Activity Center

The Quaker Bridge Mall will again support the Muscular Dystrophy Association by hosting a Jerry Lewis MDA Labor Day Telethon Activity Center.

On Sunday and Monday, patrons can come to the mall, make a pledge and enjoy the entertainment scheduled for the two-day event. Those unable to get to the mall can still contribute to MDA by calling the mall's live bank of phones at 799-6400.

Quaker Bridge Mall has been an MDA Activity Center for many years and is the largest center of its kind in the South Jersey area. This year's entertainment will include several bands, a live auction, martial arts displays, a special appearance by Garfield, and other entertainment designed to appeal to the whole family.

A special hop-a-thon event led by Garfield is a way for area day care centers and youth groups to help raise money for Muscular Dystrophy, and also to participate in the weekend festivities at Quaker Bridge Mall.

It is being held on Monday September 2 at 3 p.m. Registration must be completed by Friday, August 23.

Also scheduled for September 2 is the "Step Ahead" walking event.

For more information, call Quaker Bridge Mall at 799-8177 or MDA at 770-1225.

Revolutionary War Camp At Pennsylvania Park

Members of several Revolutionary War reenactment regiments will set up camp Saturday and Sunday, September 7 and 8, in Washington Crossing Historic Park in Pennsylvania.

During the two-day encampment visitors will have the opportunity to visit the Revolutionary War camp, talk with the soldiers and camp followers and see various demonstrations related to military camp life.

In addition to the military activities, visitors will have the opportunity to tour several of the park's historic houses. The McConkey Ferry Inn, as well as the Hibbs House, Taylor House and blacksmith shop, will be open both days, with costumed guides on hand to tell the story of Washington crossing the Delaware.

Admission is $4 for adults, $3 for seniors and $2 for children. The camp and buildings will be open both days from 10 until 4:30. Washington Crossing Historic Park is located north of the intersection of Pennsylvania Routes 32 and 532.

For more information, call (215) 493-4076.

Organic Fair Planned At Watershed Reserve

The first New Jersey Organic Country Fair will be held on Saturday, September 14, from 10 to 6, rain or shine.

Co-sponsored by the Natural Organic Farmers Association of New Jersey, Rutgers Cooperative Extension, the New Jersey Department of Agriculture, and the Stony Brook-Millstone Watershed Association, the Fair will take place at the Watershed Reserve in Pennington.

Fair-goers will be able to sample and buy locally grown organic food and to talk to New Jersey organic farmers. Other participants at the fair include vendors of organic farming and gardening supplies, craftspeople, nonprofit environmental organizations, and vendors of a variety of prepared foods. A special session geared toward buyers from supermarkets, restaurants, and health food stores will be held.

Lectures and seminars will run throughout the day. Eliot Coleman, author of The New Organic Grower, will teach classes for those with experience in organic production. Classes for the home gardener will cover such topics as composting, starting seedlings, fruit and vegetable growing, pest management, and organic lawn care. Organic garden doctors will be on hand to diagnose garden problems and prescribe organic solutions. Displays of farm, and garden equipment and tours of the Watershed's organic farm will also be featured.

For those interested in a day in the country, farm craft demonstrations will include paper making, wood turning, basket making, spinning, and quilting. Educational and fun games will entertain children including a horse-drawn hay ride and a cow plop contest for children of all ages.

NOFA-NJ is the only organization devoted to organic farm certification in New Jersey, certifying food as "organic" in accordance with federal standards. NOFA-NJ also develops educational and marketing programs for organic farmers in the State.

The Stony Brook-Millstone Watershed Association, an environmental organization that administers a 585-acre nature reserve in Hopewell Township sponsors year round environmental education programs for children, teachers, and adults. The Watershed Reserve is located on Titus Mill Road off Route 31. For information, call 737-3735.

Princeton Adult School Offers Most Courses Ever

Is our universe open or closed? Princeton physicists and astrophysicists will respond to such questions in the leading lecture series of the Princeton Adult School. "The Cosmos: The Edge of Forever" is among the all-time high of 92 courses offered by the Adult School in its fall term that begins Tuesday, October 1, and extends through Thursday, December 12, with classes held evenings, most of them in Princeton High School.

Other lecture series will present classical music, Spanish painting, the creation of the novel in 16th-century Spain, "Sex, War and Religion in the Middle Ages and the Renaissance," an introduction to language, and a return of two popular lecture courses, "The Art of the Museum: a Survey of Princeton's Collection" and "Music of the 18th and 19th Centuries."

"Exploring Visual Language" is a new course offered by the Studio Art and Crafts section, as are those on calligraphy, sand casting, marbling paper, gems and English smocking. Students will also welcome the return of the well-subscribed drawing and painting courses as well as weaving, cartooning and the classes in music: piano, recorder and singing.

"The Polish Kitchen" and "Making Fresh Pasta and Sauces" are additional treats to the long term classics, "Provincial French Cooking" and "Wine Tasting for the Initiated" in the School's gourmet focus.

Participants can also look forward to such outdoor-oriented courses as "Fall Flowers and Winter Weeds," "Canoeing in New Jersey," and "Finding and Identifying Birds." Aerobic exercise, yoga, T'ai Chi Ch'uan and all manner of dancing classes are available, with "Maintaining Weight Loss" new this term.

"Beginning Japanese" returns in October and other Language Department classes include Chinese, ESOL (English for Speakers of Other Languages), French, German, Italian, Russian and Spanish.

A Library with Charm, Not a Book Depository

To the Editor of Town Topics:

As a long time resident of Princeton I have, over the years, had a close association with and love for the Princeton Public Library. My wife and I have served on the board of the Friends of the Princeton Public Library, helped raise funds for the Friends and aided in organizing the anniversary celebration, Author! Author! with Barbara Freedman.

I have been a member of the Friends from the time that Thaddeus Longstreth designed the "new" library, a design that had great input from Robert Staples, then Assistant Librarian of the Summit library, who frequently drove down to Princeton after work to spend time with Mr. Longstreth, giving him ideas from a librarian's point of view.

Also giving advice and suggestions in the planning stage was Emerson Greenaway, Director of the Free Library of Philadelphia. The result was a building that was conceived as a library and possessing great aesthetic charm. It is difficult for me to imagine that a move to the Princeton Shopping Center would result in much more than an unimaginative warehouse for books.

I sincerely hope that in the end we have a library that is a joy to visit, not simply a book depository.

A "Pee Wee" Parent Lauds Tennis Program

To the Editor, Town Topics:

Our 6-year-old daughter just received a certificate upon completion of her "Pee Wee" tennis classes sponsored by the Princeton Community Tennis Program.

Many thanks to all the instructors involved, especially Kathy and Bob, who taught the children with great patience and care. They remembered and called each child by name, even though the cast of characters would change some from week to week, and they were kind enough to let parents watch from afar.

It was a pleasure seeing boys and girls barely taller than their pee-wee-sized racquets work so hard (and with obvious enjoyment) at mastering their skills. Even on the hottest summer days, these little children had the best of attitudes, and were encouraged according to their abilities.

Why doesn't someone videotape great Princeton activities like these and show them on Channel 30, instead of running and rerunning pictures of all the public school buildings hour after hour?

Don't Lose the Chance For an Adequate Library

To the Editor of Town Topics:

While double-parked the other day across the street from the library so my wife could run in and return a couple of books, I had some time to think about items that have been Princeton issues over the 23 years we have lived in town.

Bridges (Harrison street, over Palmer Square, over Harry's Brook), the kiosk, torn-up streets — minor inconveniences or arguments that it didn't seem to matter much who won — so we stayed uninvolved.

But the argument over the library is something else again. Here's a chance to acquire an existing building big enough for future needs, with ample free parking, more centrally located with respect to its users, and likely within walking distance of more of them than the current location.

Let's hope the opportunity to properly evaluate this exciting alternative is not lost.

Clubs and Organizations

The Exchange Club of Greater Princeton, dedicated to improving the quality of life of the homeless temporarily sheltered in the motels on Route One, will open the 1991-92 season with a special meeting September 4 at the St. Lawrence Rehab Conference Room in Lawrenceville.

Current needs, including back-to-school programs, canned food drives, household items and storage space, as well as plans for the future will be addressed. The club feeds more than 200 mothers and children each week and welcomes new volunteers and ideas.

For more information, call 737-2212.

Angela Dodson, Style Editor for the New York Times, will present "Changing Lifestyles in the '90s" at the New Jersey Communications, Advertising and Marketing Association Wednesday, September 11.

Ms. Dodson will predict how consumers, businesses and clients will be influenced by the '90s. She will discuss American society today and how it will fit in tomorrow's society, with a look at cultural and economic trends and the affects of recession in the post-war era.

The luncheon will be held at noon at the Hyatt Regency-Princeton. The cost is $20 for members, $30 for nonmembers. A cash bar will open at 11:30. Reservations are required; call (908) 788-6007.

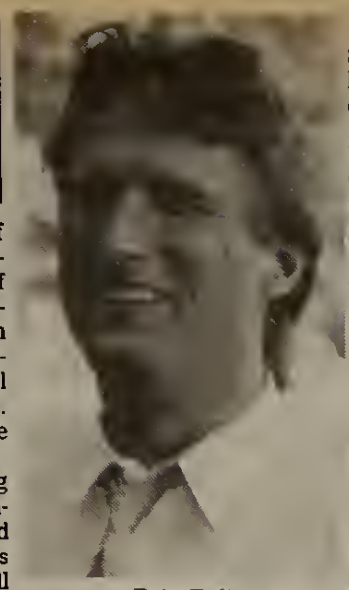
For further information, call 734-2507.

The League of Women Voters will hold its fall membership meeting from 3 to 5 p.m. on September 25 at Mountain Lakes House.

A short business meeting will be followed by guest presentations and a wine and cheese reception.

Guest speakers will be Lucinda C. Florio, wife of New Jersey Governor Jim Florio, and Barbara Irvine, executive director of the Alice Paul Foundation.

Attendance is limited to the first 50 members who respond. To reserve a place, call Lori Weiss at 683-4305.



Pete Taft

The Stony Brook-Millstone Watershed Association has named four new members to its board of trustees. They are Edward J. Gwazda of Pennington, executive director of the Princeton Medical Center Foundation; Zane Helsel, New Brunswick, chair and professor of Department of Agricultural and Resource Management Specialists, Rutgers Cooperative Extension; Elinor Relles, Princeton, director of creative services at Central Paper; and Ted Stiles of Pennington, professor of biological sciences at Rutgers University and director of Hutcheson Memorial Forest.

New trustee officers include chairman Pete Taft of Hopewell; vice chairmen John McCullough of Princeton and Lee Rosenson of East Windsor; treasurer Maria Rueda of Hopewell; and secretary Sonia Osborne of Princeton.

The Watershed Association is a community-supported environmental organization located on a 585-acre nature reserve in Hopewell Township. Operations include environmental education programs for children, teachers and adults; monitoring issues concerning land use and water quality and promoting organic growing methods in New Jersey.

For more information, call 737-3735.

The Mercer County Stroke Club will meet in the lounge of the Unitarian Church of Princeton on Cherry Hill Road on Wednesday, September 4, at 11 a.m. "Sharing, Come share your summer with us" is the subject of the program.

Everyone is welcome and asked to bring a brown bag lunch. Dessert and beverages will be provided.

In case of bad weather, WHWH, 1350 AM, or WBUD, 1260 AM will announce cancelletions. For further information, 443-4807 or 737-9063.

Radio station WHWH's "Big Irving" (Charles Titano) will be the featured speaker at the opening meeting of the West Windsor Lions Club at the Ramada Inn on Wednesday, September 4, at 7 p.m.

At the annual meeting of the Princeton Skating Club several club members were recognized for their outstanding achievements during the past season. The Kenarny Award, presented to the most improved skater, in all disciplines, was awarded to Christina Fitzgerald, of Cranbury. The most improved skaters in the individual disciplines were Jennifer Schaufler, of Pennington (Figures); Stephanie Shaffer, of Skillman (Freestyle); and Abby Bilanin, of Princeton (Dance).

An award was also given out to the Most Improved adult skater, Bill Doerler, of Yardville, Also receiving recognition, as Honorable Mentions for the adult award, were David McAlpin and Susan Salveson, both of Princeton.

court last week that she could not identify Geffrard as her attacker, Mr. Bertucio's case against Geffrard is based on circumstantial evidence.

Ms. Kay has maintained that police, in their haste to make an arrest, arrested the wrong person. She described the state's case against Geffrard as a manufactured witchhunt. She then listed more than a dozen points of reasonable doubt in a lengthy closing argument and told the jury, "You need to have only one to give Gerald Geffrard an acquittal."

Township Lt. Anthony Gaylord, called to testify on Monday by Ms. Kay, said that he knew nothing about a call to Township police the night of the stabbing in which the caller asked police if they had any murders or serious injuries in the Township that night.

Lt. Gaylord was off duty that evening but said he had gone to the scene when he heard a report of the stabbing on his police radio.

Bloodstained Shirt

Earlier last week, a forensic scientist from the state police laboratory, testified that he found human blood stains on a red shirt belonging to Geffrard. But no testimony was offered as to whether the stains were his or those of the victim. Ms. Woods had testified that her attacker wore a red shirt and dark pants.

Police, when they arrested Geffrard at his home a short while after the attack, confiscated the shirt.

The forensic expert, Joseph Petersak also testified that he could not positively determine if stains on a knife found near Geffrard's home were human blood. He also reported finding no metal filings on the knife from a screen which the intruder allegedly cut to enter the bedroom of the victim's roommate.

Two microscopic fibers found on the window screen of the first floor bathroom at the victim's address were similar to fibers from the red shirt that police confiscated in Geffrard's home.

Geffrard, who came to this country in 1984 from his native Haiti, has been held in the Mercer County Detention Center in lieu of $75,000 bail. In addition to aggravated assault, he is charged with burglary and with possession of a weapon.

If the jury finds him guilty, he could be sentenced by Superior Court Judge Charles A. Delehey to up to 20 years in prison.

New Clubhouse Opened by Italian American Sportsmen

More than 40 years ago, a group of seven friends of Italian descent established a club for social gatherings and sports activities. Today, membership in The Princeton Italian American Sportsman's Club has expanded to 160, but the tradition of friends getting together for camaraderie, games and sports remains strong.

"The club originated with the thought that it would expand from the original seven founders into a social and sports-oriented men's club," explains club president, Joseph Toto. "The early members hunted and had fishing trips and sponsored a softball and Little League team. They also established a ladies auxiliary, which is still in effect today.

"The purpose of the club is the same now," he continues. "We still sponsor the softball and Little League teams, and the softball team has some of our own members. We still have fishing trips, but there is no hunting anymore. We have social functions, such as our annual dinner dance, summer picnic, Valentine's Day and New Year's Eve parties, and also, the club is open to members' families and friends."

Club members, who are men ages 18 and up, are enthusiastic about their recently completed clubhouse. The handsome brick structure, located on Terhune Road in a scenic woodland setting, offers an attractive ambiance in which to hold meetings and social functions. Several rooms, including a club room, banquet hall, kitchen, game room, weight room and office, are available. A 20- by 42-foot swimming pool and bocci court have also been completed.

"We are not quite in full operation yet," notes Mr. Toto. "We plan to have pool and card tables in the game room, and a Universal machine and Nautilus equipment in our weight room. We hope to have the club room open Friday, Saturday, and Sunday nights for a light supper, and we also have a club liquor license, and members can buy drinks. Eventually, we'd like to see the club open every night. Right now, it's open three nights a week from six to midnight, with snacks and soft drinks available. We also hold two regular meetings each month."

Joined in 1953

Mr. Toto, who has been president for six years (as well as serving a previous term as president in the early 1960s) joined the club in 1953, and he enjoys reminiscing about its early history.

"Shortly after the club was established in 1947, the founders obtained 85 acres of land that extended from Terhune to Ewing Street. Harrison Street didn't exist yet," he recalls.

In 1953, members set up a picnic area, where they met in the summers, he adds. Until the early '60s, when they built a clubhouse on Terhune Road, they met at Dorothea House on John Street in the winter.

In 1960, the club sold 48 acres of land to Opinion Research, and with the proceeds of the sale, was able to construct a clubhouse.

"As time passed, we still had 25 acres, but things were at a standstill financially," continues Mr. Toto. "We decided to sell 20 acres and retain five. So in 1986, we sold the 20 acres and the old clubhouse to the Governor's Lane developers. Now, we would have to put up a new building for ourselves."

The club's new home adjoins the Governor's Lane location, which is the site of more than 20 brick townhouses, also in an eye-appealing woodland setting. More townhouses are expected to be built at a later date. Mr. Toto points out that architect Michael Giordino, who designed the Governor's Lane houses, also designed the new clubhouse.

Club members, who are from Princeton and the surrounding area, have increased in number by 40 to 50 since the completion of the building, reports Mr. Toto. "They are from all walks of life," he adds, "including professional people, doctors, attorneys, contractors, tradesmen, gardeners, and the insurance and financial fields. We are also getting increasing numbers of younger members, with some just out of college."

Founders All Born in Italy

There are still old timers, including some charter members, who can recall the club's early days, however, and the club's Italian orientation is evident.

ITALIAN AMERICAN AMBIANCE: Joseph Toto, president of The Princeton Italian American Sportsman's Club, is shown in front of the fireplace in the newly completed clubhouse on Terhune Road. On the mantel are several trophies won by the club's softball teams. Mr. Toto was catcher on the club's winning team of 1959.

"All the founders were born in Italy," says Mr. Toto, "and although they are all gone now, a lot of members still often speak Italian with each other, and play Italian card games and bocci. Also, before our grand opening in July, we had a special Italian buffet dinner and Italian entertainers."

The construction of the new clubhouse has preoccupied members for the past two years, reports Mr. Toto, and with its completion, "I think we have realized nearly all our dreams.

We still want to set up a scholarship for local students coming out of high school, and we are also very involved with the activities surrounding Princeton Township and its sister city, Pettoranello in Italy, and right now, we hope everyone will be able to enjoy our new clubhouse for years to come."

Deer Control

the Commission, Mr. Kuser said he thought that whatever parks are involved would be closed during those days and the public would be notified through the newspapers and by posted signs. The Institute for Advanced Study closes its woods for bow hunting at certain times during the bow season in the fall, he noted.

Education Vital

Equally important among the committee's three main recommendations is education — of landowners and of the public. The Environmental Commission was asked to request some money from Township Committee to carry out an education program, which might include the distribution of brochures describing the link between Lyme disease and deer.

Mr. Kuser outlined the life cycle of Ixodes damminii, the deer tick. When the eggs hatch in July, the larvae are smaller than a pinhead and presumed to be non-infective — not carrying the spirochete that actually causes the disease. The larva takes up a questing position in grasses, hoping for a white-footed mouse, a song bird or a red squirrel to latch onto for its first blood meal.

After five days, it becomes engorged and drops off, not to be seen again until the following April as an eight-legged nymph. If it attached to a white-footed mouse carrying the spirochete that causes Lyme disease during that first blood meal, it may now be infective. The nymph quests higher in the brush and look for anything warm-blooded that comes along — including humans. April, May and June are the time of year when humans are most likely to become infected with Lyme disease, Mr. Kuser says.

The deer connection occurs in October and November when the adult ticks mate. Nobody knows why, but adult deer ticks mate on the body of a white-tail deer and nowhere else. "Deer don't transmit the disease," Mr. Kuser notes. "But deer are necessary for ticks to reproduce." A white-tail deer may have as many as 300 ticks on its body, each looking for a mate.

The female lays her eggs where she drops off, so there is a strong correlation between where deer congregate in the fall and the prevalence of deer tick larvae the following spring.

Early symptoms of Lyme disease are fever, chills, headache, muscle and joint pain. If the disease goes untreated with antibiotics, there can be complications that affect the heart, nervous system and joints.

In addition to putting out a pamphlet educating the public about the correlation between deer and Lyme disease, Mr. Kuser and the ad hoc deer committee believe that landowners need to be educated in their rights and responsibilities in regard to deer hunting.

"The landowner sets the rules," Mr. Kuser asserted. "As a landowner, you're the boss. You can regulate where the bow hunter sets his tree stand. You can require that he or she use a portable stand, not nailed into a tree, if you like."

Recommended Guidelines

Mr. Kuser recommends guidelines like those used by New York Botanical Gardens at its Carey Arboretum in Millbrook, N.Y., when it opened the arboretum to hunting to thin the herd. There, a hunter must hunt the full season or is not invited to come back. A hunter must also take a doe first, before taking a buck. When a hunter has taken his quota — usually the two deer allowed in regular season and the two in special season — another hunter is immediately brought in to continue the hunt in order to get the maximum number of deer during the season.

John Powers of Ridgeview Road, who described himself as a bow hunter who also allows his property to be hunted by others, told the Commission that the bow hunters' attitude is to hunt for antlers. Bow hunters will sit through the whole season, and if they don't get a buck by the last day, they might then take a doe. Mr. Powers said that the Township will have to change bow hunters' attitudes so they will shoot does.

Another bow hunter, Bob Kubiak, told the Commission that the problem lies in the fact that too few hunters have access to Township lands. "Many guys would really enjoy hunting in Princeton Township," he said. His suggestion was to ration the acreage among more hunters, an approach that a representative of the Fish Game & Wildlife Division of the Department of Environmental Protection, on hand for the discussion, said was illegal.

Betty Wolfe of the Environmental Commission asked how many additional deer could be expected to be killed if the ban on shotgun hunting is lifted for the six days. The representatives from Fish & Game described how they go about issuing permits using a formula that takes into account the number of roadkills and previous hunter success for each deer hunting zone. (Princeton lies in zone 12 and zone 14, with Route 206 the dividing line.) But they either did not know the answer to Mrs. Wolfe's question or were avoiding it.

Not Predicting Miracles

"I'm wondering if the number will be significant enough to merit upsetting people," she said. Mr. Kuser said in a telepbone interview the next day, "We don't know how successful it will be. My hunch is that it will be somewhat like that experienced by the Institute for Advanced Study. The first year [of bow hunting] they got maybe one, the next year 14, the third 27. This program will be like that.

"I don't predict miracles," he added, "but if we can establish it, and de-bug it, it will produce the miracle."

Some members of the audience spoke against the program, citing safety concerns. Madeline Blinder said, "Being sick [with Lyme disease] is a whole lot better than being dead" and added that it is "very intimidating to restrict or enforce aggressive hunters."

Pat Light, who had written a letter to the Environmental Commission listing her concerns, said the meeting had laid some of them to rest but having witnessed what she called "totally irresponsible behavior" on the part of out-of-town hunters, she told the Commission she was very concerned about who hunts.

Lt. Martin Morales of the Division of Fish, Game & Wildlife remarked, "I understand your concerns. We are trying to get more responsible hunters statewide. He mentioned the Hunters Responsibility Act and described an education program called Hunt Smart which hunters are required to take before before they receive licenses.

However he also said that the rules that a property owner makes for hunters are not enforceable by the state. The property owner's only recourse is to not allow a hunter not abiding by them back on the property.

The meeting lasted a full two hours. At the end, Mrs. Wolfe moved that the recommendations of the ad hoc deer committee be forwarded to Township Committee along with a summary of the arguments and suggestions that had been made in the meeting. She also asked that the hunters education program bear specifically on shotgun hunting. Jack Robert seconded the motion. Peggy McNeil, chairman of the Environmental Commission and Mr. Kuser joined them in saying "aye" to approve the motion.

Teamwork Dance Throwing a 10th Anniversary Party

It's been 10 years since Mary Pat Robertson teamed up with John Watson Stewart to found Teamwork Dance.

She was an experienced dancer, classically trained in ballet and modern dance, tall, quiet, poised and graceful. When she left New York City and the Merce Cunningham studio, where she had a special scholarship, to come to Princeton with her graduate student husband, she decided to try her hand at choreography.

News of the THEATRES

He was athletic and agile, having played soccer and ice hockey at college, but he had never danced. Energetic and intense, he tried out for a PJ&B musical in February, 1981, joined the cast and became hooked on theater — singing, dancing, acting — he wanted to do it all.

In August, 1981, Mr. Stewart landed a featured role in a Pennington Players production of Carousel at the Open Air Theatre in Washington Crossing in which several of Mrs. Robertson's friends were dancing. Getting together after the show, they decided they would like to put on their own evening of dance. Mrs. Robertson was working on her first dance piece, Field and Stream, a suite of dances — inspired by an open field off Henderson Place leading to a stream at the edge of what is now the Mountain Lakes Preserve — and by her pleasure at being in the country.

There were several female dancers in the area, including Janelle Bryne and Nancy Thiel, but few male dancers. "John was the only person I knew who could participate in this evening as a dancer," Mrs. Robertson says. From the start as they were putting together some dances and working on her piece she found his enthusiasm and inventive imagination contagious.

YIN AND YANG: This was an early publicity photo of Mary Pat Robertson and John Watson Stewart staged to illustrate the two strands, dance and sports, that were entwined in Teamwork Dance.

"Amazing Ideas"

"John had amazing ideas," Mrs. Robertson recalls. "I just loved seeing the way his brain was working." He had begun to take dance classes at Princeton Ballet, and in October or November, he said he would like to do some choreography as well. Over the years, many of the original pieces the company has presented have been his or hers.

Meanwhile, Field and Stream was presented in New York on September 18 and 19, 1981, and in the Acting Studio at Princeton University the next weekend. An article in Dance-magazine the following January praised Mrs. Robertson for the "skill and delicacy as a choreographer" with which she had constructed dances for three professional female dancers (herself, Ms. Byrne and Ms. Thiel) and two men (Darryl Williams and Mr. Stewart) "who are eager, dedicated beginners at their craft."

From this conscious joining of athleticism and dance movement, Teamwork Dance was created and became incorporated a year or so later. Mr. Stewart and Mrs. Robertson were co-directors as well as co-founders until Mr. Stewart became involved in theater work elsewhere. Now Mrs. Robertson is the sole director, but he is coming back for Teamwork Dance's 10th anniversary party on Saturday, September 7. Called "Decade's Delight," the party will be held at Colonial Club on Prospect Street from 4:30 to 6:30 and will feature excerpts from eight of the 50 original works Teamwork Dance has presented in its first decade.

In addition to Mr. Stewart and Mrs. Robertson, the choreographers represented include Geraldine Borrelli-Shea, Kate Glasner and Tim Acito. They will be joined as dancers by Janell Byrne, Ellen I. McDonald, Susan Niedt, Mario Ritualo, Cheryl Whitney and Anne Woodside.

Tickets are $25 per person and $40 per couple, and are available by calling 921-9191 or (908) 359-6752.

No Permanent Funding

Mrs. Robertson says Teamwork Dance was modelled after the New York City tradition of dancers getting together to do concerts and then disbanding. The way the arts are funded in this country and the lack of adequate permanent funding for dance companies accounts for this pattern, she says.

Teamwork Dance is unusual in that it has continued for 10 years, drawing new dancers, new choreographers and other kinds of performers to take the place of those who move away. It is also unusual in that its members have full-time careers, usually related to dance, around which rehearsals and performances have to be scheduled.

Mrs. Robertson is the administrative director of the Princeton Ballet School, which enrolls some 1100 students, 600 at the Princeton studios, the others at the Cranbury and New Brunswick studios. She also teaches at the school, specializing in adult beginners.

She grew up in Tulsa, Okla., and danced as a teenager with the Tulsa Ballet. After one year at Wellesley College, she transferred to Stanford University, where her high school sweetheart, Michael Robertson, was a student. She majored in French, but at every available moment she danced in college modern dance concerts and in classical roles with the Peninsula Ballet, first as a member of the corps de ballet and then as a soloist.

When she and Michael moved to New York, he taught prep school and wrote dance reviews while she studied at the Limon School, the Graham School and the Merce Cunningham Studio. She also taught ballet at N.Y.U. Michael's decision to pursue graduate studies in English at Princeton prompted the move to this area.

In its early years, Teamwork Dance presented concerts at 185 Nassau Street to capacity audiences. "We had large crowds, Mrs. Robertson recalls. The University kids seemed excited about us, and there were people from town there too." The company was allowed to perform there as long as she was on the faculty, but when she began teaching at Princeton Ballet instead, Teamwork Dance had to move.

Move to Kelsey Theatre

Kelsey Theatre at Mercer County Community College then became home base. Teamwork Dance lost some of its Princeton audience in the transition, but still has what Mrs. Robertson characterizes as a "very specific and very loyal audience who demand more of us, wanting to see us do new works." This accounts for the large number of original dances in such a short span of time. This puts pressure on the company, but Mrs. Robertson says it is good to have that pressure and exciting to have an audience that has high expectations.

Teamwork Dance has also performed at Columbia University, at Liberty State Park and the Cape May Point State Park, at an international festival in Pittsburgh and as the advent sermon in a Presbyterian Church in Tulsa. Its repertory is just as varied, ranging from introspective and expressive, to theater pieces with spoken dialogue and/or singing, to dances that Mrs. Robertson says are just plain "goofy and fun."

The dancers themselves come from varied backgrounds and do a variety of things connected with dance. Ms. Byrne is a graduate of the Juilliard School of Dance and now runs the Mercer Dance Ensemble, the student dance company at Mercer County Community College. Nancy Thiel, who has left Princeton to pursue a degree in architecture at Syracuse University, taught jazz at Princeton Ballet and did the choreography for many PJ&B musicals.

Ellen McDonald, another longtime Teamwork Dance member, runs the Body Shop, an aerobic studio. Kate Glasner danced for Twyla Tharp for 12 years, Susan Niedt is mainly an actress. Among the more recent additions, Mario Ritualo is an engineer with the Department of Transportation who started dancing in college and has become "a fabulous dancer," in Mrs. Robertson's words. Another newcomer is Tim Acito, a recent graduate of UC Berkeley who was a gymnast all through college and took his first ballet class in his final semester. He has recently choreographed his first dance.

Find Interesting People

Some of the people who have danced with Teamwork Dance have also presented their own works and this has also added to the mix. Among them are Geulab Abrahms, Dermot Burke and Karen Russo. "My philosophy is to find interesting people and play to their strengths," Mrs. Robertson says. One of the interesting people was Mira Pospisil who studied for many years with Ernestine Stodelle, an original member of Doris Humphrey's troupe. Ms. Pospisil brought Humphrey technique and several Humphrey dances to Teamwork Dance concerts.

Mrs. Robertson says she has occasionally been asked when the company will settle down with one style instead of presenting such an eclectic mix. She says she doubts that will happen. The variety is much more fun and something the audience seems to enjoy.

Those who take up Teamwork Dance's invitation to its birthday party on September 7 will have an opportunity to see the whole spectrum. The program includes excerpts from Mrs. Robertson's Field and Stream, as well as Mixed Doubles, a 1920's mood piece involving two guys with tennis raquets flirting with three girls; Bedford Falls, by Mr. Stewart, a take-off on the Frank Capra film It's A Wonderful Life;

Also, Starfield, a pure movement piece by Mrs. Robertson to the music of Bach; Manhattan Serenade, with Anne Woodside and Mr. Acito singing "I'll be Seeing You"; Holding Patterns, by Geraldine Borelli-Shea, a trio involving huge beach balls, and Big Decision, by Kate Glasnér, described as "fast, fun Thwarp movement to the music of Glenn Miller."

Happy Birthday, Teamwork Dance, and many more to come.

The Recorder Society Begins Its New Season

The Princeton Recorder Society will begin the new season on Tuesday, September 10, at 8 at Kingston Presbyterian Church. Susanna Plotquin-Szriftgiser will conduct the group in dance music of the Italiao Renaissance and the 20th century.

Mrs. Plotquin-Szriftgiser comes here from Argentina where she studied flute, guitar, percussion, choral direction, music theory and practice at the Collegium Musicum of Buenos Aires. She also studied psycho-pedagogy with Alicia M. de La Rocha and has had extensive performing experience with Collegium Musicum, In Nomine Musica Ficte, and Ellipsis.

She now lives with her family in Wanaque, where she teaches recorder. Visitors are welcome to attend meetings of the Princeton Recorder Society, whether they wish to play or merely to listen. Future meetings are scheduled for the first Tuesday of each month except June, July and August. Refreshments are served after each meeting.

For information call Sheila MacRae, PRS president, at 683-5040.

Hopewell Valley Chorus Begins the Fall Season

The Hopewell Valley Chorus, a mixed-voice chorus of about 70 members, will begin rehearsals for its December holiday concert on Monday, September 9, at the Hopewell Valley Central High School, Pennington-Titusville Road, in Pennington. Registration will begin at 7.

Rehearsals are held on Monday evenings from 7:45 to 9:45. No auditions are required, and there are currently openings in the tenor and bass sections. There is a nominal fee for dues and deposit on music.

The choral group is comprised of adult singers from many different walks of life. It performs a repertorie ranging from sacred music to popular tunes. Selections for the holiday concert will include Britten's Ceremony of Carols, Candlelight Carol by Rutter, a number of popular tunes such as White Christmas and Sleigh Ride as well as other well-known holiday melodies.

The chorus is under the direction of Ronald Melrose, who is also an arranger and composer. For further information, call Nancy Horkay, public relations, at 466-4162 or Valerie Hansen, vice president, at 737-2574.

The Chamber Symphony Announces 1991-92 Series

The Chamber Symphony of Princeton, directed by Mark Laycock, has announced a five-concert series for 1991-1992. The series opens on Sunday, October 6, at Richardson Auditorium.

Highlights of the year include guest performances by the Louisiana Repertory Jazz Ensemble, the American Boychoir, soprano Deborah Ford, pianist Sergel Babayan, violinist Yuri Mazurkevich, and Dennis James with new compositions for harmonica and cristal.

The series opens on Sunday, October 6, with a "journey into jazz." The program begins with Beethoven's Overture to the Creatures of Prometheus and includes works by Brahms, Elgar, Debussy, Stravinsky, Milhaud and Ibert, culminating in a rare performance of Kuneke's Dance Suite for jazz band and orchestra, featuring the Louisiana Repertory Jazz Ensemble under the direction of Fred Starr. Mr. Starr is also presideot of Oberlin College, Ohio.

The second concert, on Sunday, November 10, features violinist Yuri Mazurkevich, who will perform Mozart's Violio Concerto No. 5, K.219, and Saint-Saens' Introduction and Rondo Capriccioso. Born in Lvov, U.S.S.R., Mr. Mazurkevich studied at the Moscow Conservatory with David Oistrakh. Awarded the title of Outstanding Artist of the Republic, in 1975 he migrated to the west and since 1985 has served as professor of violin at Boston University while pursuing an active performance career. Also on the program is Bartok's Hungarian Pictures and Mendelssohn's Symphony No. 1.

Mark Laycock

The human voice is featured in the January 26 concert, with the American Boychoir and soprano Deborah Ford. Ms. Ford will perform Ravel's Sheherazade and a series of songs by R. Strauss. The American Boychoir will join the Symphony in Prokofiev's Winter Bonfire for Boychoir and Orchestra.

A graduate of Westminster Choir College, Ms. Ford won first prize at the New Jersey State Opera Competition in 1990, and the Bayreuth Wagner Society Competition the same year. She has performed throughout the United States and in Europe. The American Boychoir has performed all over the United States and internationally, and is directed by James Litton.

The program of March 29 features the glass harmonica, considered the first truly American instrument. Soloist Dennis S. James will perform works by Mozart, who wrote the Adagio for Glass Harmonica K.356, Reichardt's Rondo in B Flat for Glass Harmonica and a new work by Kile Smith commissioned for the cristal and orchestra. Also on the program is Handel's Overture to Ottone and Mozart's Symphony No. 34, K.338.

The season closes on May 3 with a performance of Chopin's Piano Concerto No. 2 by Sergei Babayan, winner of the 1989 Casadesus International Piano Competition. Concertgoers will also hear Rossini's Overture to La Scala di Seta, Delibes' Le Roi s'Amuse, and the winner of the 1990 New Jersey Composers' Guild Competition. Also on the program is the United States premiere of Mu Kkobo Ery'Omusaalaba by the contemporary Ugandan composer Tamusuza.

All concerts take place on Sundays at 3 in Richardson Auditorium. Season subscriptions are available at $90, $77 and $54, with special prices available for seniors and students.

For subscription informatioo call 497-0020. Single tickets will be available from Richardson Auditorium box office two weeks before each concert and student rush tickets will be available on the day of performance at $5. The Richardson box office phone number is 497-0020.

To all qualified choral singers in the Princeton area:

Allow me to extend a most cordial invitation to audition for the Princeton University Chapel Choir or the Princeton University Glee Club during the upcoming audition period in September. Both groups welcome the musical and personal diversity brought about by community members sharing the great music that we experience. The Chapel Choir is a particularly able group of salaried singers that furnishes the music for the Sunday morning services in the University Chapel, often of the scope of a Mozart missa brevis or a Bach cantata. The Glee Club confines itself to concerts, both here and out of town (including annual concerts with the Harvard and Yale Glee Clubs), and sings a repertoire of comparable quality. For those with the ability and the time, membership in either group can be extremely rewarding.

There is, however, another possibility for performance with the two groups. For the past several years, a group of excellent singers from the community has joined forces with us to enlarge and enhance the chorus for such works as the Berlioz "Requiem," the Brahms "Triumphlied," the Beethoven "Missa solemnis," and this last season the Brahms "Requiem." We have all been very pleased with the result, and consequently I am renewing the invitation to audition not only for the Chapel Choir and Glee Club, but for those with less time, participation in the large works of the seascn: February 28 and 29 (Stravinsky: Symphony of Psalms, Schoenberg: Friede auf Erden, Bartók: Cantata Profana), and April 10 and 11 (Verdi: Requiem). These will all be performed in Richardson Auditorium with soloists (drawn from the oboruses where possible) and orchestra. In addition, the Choir will perform the Schuetz: Christmas Story for Christmas Vespers on December 15, and the Haydn: Creation for the annual Milbank concert on April 28. Let me add that there are also excellent opportunities for accompanists and rehearsal assistants.

This forthcoming season will be my last with these splendid organizations, and I wish to leave the concept of community participation in an extremely healthy state! If any part of the foregoing interests you, please phone 258-3048 at your earliest opportunity. Any questions you may have will be answered, and the possibility of an audition time will be explored. Auditions will begin shortly after labor Day and continue through the middle of September, but appointments will be set up starting immediately.

Sincerely yours,

Walter Nollner

Music & Movement Center Schedules an Open House

The Music and Movement Center of Princeton invites parents or other caregivers and their infants, toddlers and preschool children to attend an open house Saturday, September 14, from 10 to 1. Demonstration classes will be held of Music Together, the parent/child music enrichment program developed by the center. Call 924-7801 to schedule an open house demonstration class time.

Registration deadline for the fall semester of Music Together classes beginning September 26 is September 23. Classes will be available at tbe Music and Movement Center, Montgomery United Methodist Church, and the newest location, Glassboro State College. Call the Music and Movement Center, 924-7801, for further information.

British Vocal Music By Rutgers Soprano

Soprano Judith Nicosia Civitano will present a concert of British vocal music composed since 1945 in the opening event of the Music Faculty Scholarship Series of Rutgers' Mason Gross School of the Arts.

The concert, featuring songs by a broad range of influential British composers, will be held Sunday, September 22, at 4 p.m. in Nicholas Music Center of the Rutgers Arts Center, George Street at Route 18, New Brunswick.

Ms. Civitano has performed as soloist under Robert Shaw, with the Masterworks Chorus and with the Cborus of St. Cecilia at Carnegie and Avery Fisher halls. Winner of the 1981 Montreal International Voice Competition, she has sung with various opera companies and symphonies. She is an assistant professor of music at the Mason Gross School.

The soprano will be accompanied by pianist Meg Bachman Vas, a member of the New York Camerata and the New York Philomusica chamber ensembles.

Tickets are $8 general admission, $7 for people 63 years and older and Rutgers faculty and staff, and $3 for Rutgers students. For information or to charge tickets by phone, call the Rutgers Arts ticket office, (908) 932-7511.

Auditions for Girlchoir

Auditions will be held September 4 through 14 for the Princeton Girlchoir, a community cborus of middle-school age students from the greater Princeton area. Interested persons should call Beverly Parker, 466-2119, or Jan Westrick, 924-8017. Rehearsals will begin on September 16.

The Princeton Girlchoir numbers about 50 members, and is in its third season.

Rutgers Concert Series To Mark Anniversaries

The Rutgers University Concert Series will mark its 75th year with a five-concert series that includes a celebration of the 225th anniversary of the granting of Rutgers' charter.

The charter commemoration concert will feature mezzo-soprano Marilyn Horne with the Rutgers University Orchestra, conducted by Peter Rubardt, assistant conductor of the New Jersey Symphony Orchestra. The performance, Ms. Horne's first New Brunswick appearance in a decade, will take place Sunday, November 10, at 4, at the State Theatre.

The program will feature arias by Rossini and Tchaikovsky's Sympbony No. 4 in F Minor. Ms. Horne has sung at all of the world's major opera houses including the Metropolitan Opera in New York.

The 1991-92 anniversary series will open with the Cleveland Quartet Thursday, October 10, at 8 at the Nicholas Music Center. The string quartet, which plays a matched set of Stradivarius instruments, will highlight the Viennese/German tradition with an evening of Beethoven quartets. Danish recorder virtuoso Michala Petri will be joined by guitarist Kazuhito Yamashita in a concert Thursday, January 23, also at the Nicholas Music Center.

The 28-member chamber orchestra Philharmonia Virtuosi, conducted by Richard Kapp, will perform an evening of Bach, Haydn and Villa-Lobos Thursday, February 6. The concert will feature a Haydn cello concerto performed by cellist Amy Levine, who appeared in the 1991 Marlboro Festival. Ms. Levine was a 1990 Rutgers SummerFest performer and winner of the 1990 Harry Le Bovit String Competition at the Mason Gross School of the Arts.

Wrapping up the series will be a performance by the New York Woodwind Quintet, joined by piano soloist Gilbert Kalish, Thursday, April 9.

Subscriptions for the series cost $86 with discounts for people 63 years and older and for Rutgers faculty, staff and students. For information or to order tickets by phone, call the Rutgers Arts ticket office, (908) 932-7511.

Outdoor Pops Concert By the Raritan River

The Brunswick Symphony Orchestra, conducted by John Peter Holly, will perform a free outdoor concert of American music Saturday at 7 in Boyd Park, along the banks of the Raritan River. The concert is part of the 12th Annual Raritan River Festival.

The program, entitled "A Star Spangled Spectacular" includes music by Aaron Copland, Leonard Bernstein, John Philip Sousa, Jerome Kern, Morton Gould, Irving Berlin and George M. Cohan. The final segment of the concert will conclude with a fireworks display. In case of rain, the program will take place on Sunday at 8.

Voice Training Course With Pro Musica Soloist

The Princeton YWCA will sponsor a new voice training course led by Kevin Dias, frequent soloist not only with Princeton Pro Musica but also with Dave Brubeck and the New York City Opera.

Princeton Pro Musica started at the YWCA a number of years ago. The course is for anyone who wants to improve their vocal technique, study sight reading and gain confidence for auditions. Some basic music theory will be included in the course curriculum.

Mr. Dias is a graduate of Juilliard and has made his debut with the New York Philharmonic, the Philadelphia Orchestra and the Tel Aviv Orchestra. Further plans for the YWCA's collaboration with Mr. Dias include a youth chorus.

This is an opportunity to study voice for 10 weeks with a skilled instructor for a moderate fee, just $80. For more information, call the Princeton YWCA Adult Department at 497-2103.

Tiger Football Wants to Erase Memories of Last Year, And Bring Back Desire that Produced Ivy Title in 1989

Two years ago, a climb to the top; last fall a drop near the bottom — the fortunes of the Princeton football team are once again on a roller coaster. Are the Tigers set to head back up the track, flatten out, or dip some more?

Pre-season practice will begin this weekend, three weeks from the opening game against Cornell on September 21. So naturally it's time for the annual guessing game on what the future might hold for coach Steve Tosches and his troops. The facts will be presented, the evidence weighed, and at the end a prediction or two will surface, with the hope that no one will remember in November what was forecast in September.

The contrast in feelings at the end of the final game of the 1990 and 1991 Princeton football seasons is still sharply etched in the mind.

Two years ago in November, a determined Tiger team had soundly defeated Cornell to finish 6-1 (7-2-1 overall) in the Ivy League. As the contest progressed, excitement grew on the home side of Palmer Stadium, not only over the outcome here, but over the events taking place in New Haven. Harvard was upsetting Yale in the Bowl, guaranteeing Old Nassau a piece of its first league title in two decades.

Twelve months later, the successor to that 1990 squad gave one final inept performance against Dartmouth, bowing out of one of the most forgettable campaigns in the last 10 or so. It could muster just three undistinguished victories in 10 tries (2-5 Ivy), and some of the losses (Harvard and Yale to name two) were appalling.

With back-to-back seasons like that, it's no mean feat attempting to predict what might happen this fall. However, the future seems clearest when viewed in the context of the past four years, not just the last two.

Strong Focus in '87

In 1987, the unfortunate death of head coach Ron Rogerson two weeks before training camp provided a strong focus for a team looking for its first winning season in six years. Tosches took over the reins, three talented Garrett brothers came on board, and the Tigers finished 6-4.

A more talented team in 1988 also won six of 10, but there was the distinct feeling that something had been left undone. The Ivy title had once again eluded Princeton's grasp. The following fall 20 years of being an also-ran in the league race finally came to an end. The ultimate goal had been accomplished.

When 1990 rolled around, it was evident early on that the sense of mission that produced three winning seasons and a league championship was missing. It never materialized.

SPORTS

Tosches doesn't mince words when he talks about the problems encountered trying to match the success of the previous year.

"It was a nice high, wearing our championship rings," he commented, "but the celebration lasted a little too long. Mentally and physically we all were a little too soft. If you don't go back to step one and progress mentally from there, you're going to have problems.

"We weren't focused enough, and consequently we were out of synch all season. The burning desire to win just wasn't there, and if it doesn't come from the heart it doesn't get done.

No Illusions in '91

"We were embarrassed and disappointed."

Steve Tosches
"The Celebration Lasted... Too Long."

That was the bottom line for coaches, players, and fans alike. Perhaps, the good news is that those involved in the program won't be going into this season with any illusions about what it takes to get the job done. Tosches speaks of a rededication among the coaching staff, reevaluating every aspect of the program, and the players' regular trips to the weight room, starting soon after last season.

Obviously, it will take more than that. One wonders if it is merely coincidence or not that the only three winning seasons in the last decade have come with one or more Garrett brothers on the team. With all the Garretts gone, last year's sputtering offense was woefully similar to the one that led the 1986 squad to a 2-8 mark, a year before they arrived.

Whatever, the reason, the offensive firepower has got to improve markedly to make contenders out of the Tigers again. Although Tosches will be looking for a new quarterback, this position is not as key as it may seem. In the Ivy League, it's a good running attack and a stingy defense that more often than not produces titles. Princeton, with Judd Garrett setting several rushing records, and Yale, with a reformed baseball player (Darin Kehler) running its wishbone offense, proved that two years ago. Dartmouth and Cornell confirmed it last season.

Fortunately, the ground game is expected to get a big boost from freshman phenomenon Keith Elias, the only first-year player ever to rush for more than 1,000 yards (1,080 on 158 carries). Small in size, Elias has quicksilver moves that may produce the big gains Garrett used to chalk up in a different manner.

The defense, which allowed an average of three touchdowns last fall, has six starters, including captain Jim Freeman returning. Like the offense, which has five starters back, this unit must improve. However, the most vivid memories of 1990 recall an overall ineptitude — dropped snaps, blocked punts, mixed extra points, illegal motion penalties — that gave startling evidence of a team just not ready to play football on a Saturday afternoon.

.500 Mark Within Reach

A new attitude, a few changes in personnel, a break here or there, and Princeton has a good shot at returning to at least the .500 mark. It plays the same 10 teams it did a year ago in the same order, and it lost to three of them by a field goal or less. Among its Patriot League foes, Colgate and Bucknell do not appear to be as strong as they were a year ago, while Fordham will still be trying for parity with its opponents. Princeton could win two of three as opposed to just one last season.

The balance of power has not shifted much in the league, and no team appears strong enough, as Penn did in the mid-'80s, to run away with the championship. Pre-season forecasts, more guesswork in this league than almost any other, favor defending champion Cornell. As long as Carm Cozza coaches in New Haven, Yale will always be considered a serious contender. Dartmouth, which shared the title with the Big Red, has more rebuilding to do, but might challenge.

One of the most unusual football teams of all-time was the Dartmouth team of 1925 ... They won the national championship in college football that year even though their head coach — Jesse Hawley — was only a volunteer and wasn't paid ... Hawley, a wealthy businessman, coacbed the team as a hobby — yet they went undefeated and were voted national champs ... The other amazing thing is that EVERY starter was an honor student and there were 22 Phi Beta Kappas on the squad ... There never has been another team in history like the Darmouth 1925 national champions.

Princeton, Harvard and Penn are consigned to the middle of the pack, while Brown and Columbia should engage in their annual struggle for seventh place. A year ago, the Tigers could defeat only the Bruins and the Quakers.

Before pre-season began, Tosches could already point to one postive note. "There is going to be more competition for starting positions than we have had the last several years," he noted. "We are going to have two guys competing for every position, and this will help us. Nobody will be able to settle in a spot and get complacent."

Next week, the Tigers will be reviewed on a position by postion basis; the following issue will examine their 10 opponents, and try and figure out which ones Princeton can beat.

Ficarro's Versus Grove In Playoff Title Series

Steve Ficarro's Auto Body, which finished in second place in the Women's Softball League at the end of the regular season, and Grove Plumbing, which finisbed first, were scheduled to meet early this week in a best-of-three series to determine the league's playoff champion.

"What a way to prepare for the Labor Day Weekend Tournament ... to have the number one and number two teams go at each other. It's perfect," said Ficarro manager Robert Smyth. The series pits two outstanding pitchers against each other: Ficarro's Carol Ann Mazzella and Grove's Cathy Elberson.

In three regular season games this summer, Grove held a 2-1 advantage over Ficarro's, Ficarro's bowing 2-1 to Grove in its season's opener. In two tournament games this season, Grove won both by identical 1-0 scores. All close games, agreed Smyth. "Traditionally, we do this with this team."

The best-of-three series was to be played in one night at Mercer Park.

In two opening-round playoff games last week, third-place Three Seasons absorbed a big time 11-1 upset at the hands of sixth-place Larkin's Gulf. The game was stopped after five inning under the 10-run rule. In the other matchup, fourth-place Mercer Spring topped Dot's Girls, 11-4.

In one semi-final, Grove Plumbing overcame a 5-0 deficit and came back to defeat

Don Cahoon Moves into Baker Rink Office And Talks About Revitalizing Hockey Here

A breath of fresh air from the north blew into Princeton last week, and will stick around a while.

Already sporting a Tiger hockey tie, Don Cahoon sat in his new office in Baker Rink, sounding like a man who had just taken over coaching the Harvard hockey team, rather than one that has had just two winning seasons in the last 30 years.

Chosen in June to replace Jim Higgins, who struggled to improve the program for 14 years with limited success, Cahoon is eager to take up the challenge.

"I've finally ended up in the Ivy League," he commented last week. It's hard to believe. I had always hoped to be a head coach at the Division I level, but never in my wildest dreams did I think I would end up in Princeton. This might be realizing my life's dream right now. I don't know whether I see myself coaching the New York Rangers or Boston Bruins or one day or not."

Looking at Princeton's past hockey history, Cahoon is not intimidated by the problems of a sport that has known less success than any other offered at the University.

"There's been some good things that have happened here," he points out. There have been good players, and they have competed well at times. Obviously, there are a few things we have to try and overcome."

The first of those is the depth of talent on the team. The Tigers have always been blessed with a few good players, some of those have been outstanding, but the ability level of the third and fourth lines does not match those of other teams.

With a little help from the admissions office and a more thorough job of recruiting, he hopes to bring Princeton closer to the talent level of Division I opponents. Some of the teams he must compete against do not have the strict standards of the Ivy League, but Bill Tierney is in the same boat, and he had great success turning the lacrosse program around. Unlike lacrosse, however, Princeton may be at a disadvantage geographically in trying to lure the better hockey players here, so Cahoon definitely has his work cut out for him.

Cahoon also acknowledged that the overall attitude of the players must be improved. This, perhaps the biggest problem plaguing the Orange and Black, seemed to flow from one season to next despite the turnover in players. It produced the annual feeling that the only thing consistent about the team was its inconsistency.

Lastly, he hopes to be able to solve Princeton's inability to win away from Baker Rink. "It's alarming to think how poorly this team has done over the years on the road," he commented.

Cahoon's approach to affecting this change for the better may not be novel, but his enthusiasm gives it a good chance of working. He speaks of putting in place a foundation, emphasizing both physical and mental development, that will enable players to create and sustain a higher level of performance than they have been used to.

The key to this is instilling an internal motivation that has to come, he points out, from within each player and next team as a whole. "Then the good things will start to happen."

He will begin with the older players, the juniors and seniors, to convince them to "buy into the program" and help pass it on to the sophomores and freshmen.

The specifics of the program including developing body strength in pre-season, and maintaining it throughout weeks of competition. This will be accomplished in part through aerobic exercises. Hockey games are often won in the corners where control of the puck more often than not goes to the player able to outmuscle the others.

Important as it is, training will not take up much of the team's ice time. "We will do very little training on ice," Cahoon noted. "Most of that will be done away from the rink, and the players may spend somewhat less time on ice than they were used to."

Cahoon has already met some of the players, and will be talking to all of them on an individual basis before practice begins October 15. He pointed out that Len Quesnelle, one of Higgins' assistants who he has retained, will be helpful in evaluating the returning players.

The team should be a boost from at least two incoming freshmen, who were widely recruited elsewhere. One is Ian Sharp, a big forward, who Cahoon had tried to convince to come to Boston University (where he was an assistant coach) last winter; the other is a goalie, Roderick York, who has impressive credentials. "Finding a good goalie is a real priority,' Cahoon acknowledged. "You don't go very far in bockey without one."

No one can predict how far the Tigers will go this season, and Cahoon certainly didn't want to hazard a guess.

"Our goal is to play better as the season goes along," he said. "There's a whole slew of variables like injuries and such that will determine our final record. Generally speaking, I want to be able to look back and see that we're better than we were when we started. And I want these kids to end the year feeling it was a great experience."

The feeling here is that come November, the legions of Baker Rink faithful will begin to have a better experience, too.

Mercer Spring, 8-5, to advance to the finals. In the other, Ficarro's spotted Larkin's a three-run lead in the top of the first and then came back to send 12 players to the plate and score 10 runs in its half of the same inning. The highlight of the Ficarro onslaught was Cindy Lombardo's grand slam homer, the first slam of the season for the victors. "Essentially, we took care of all the business we had to in the first inning," said Smyth.

Ficarro's added another run in the second, and after Larkin's fought back into the contest with three more runs in the fourth to trail 11-6, Ficarro's put it out of reach with three runs of its own in the same inning for a 16-6 bulge.

Doreen "Bip" Romanchuck had two hits, including a triple, to drive in four Ficarro runs. Beth Ault, Carla Brantley and Dee Discavage all had two hits apiece for Ficarro's.

"Larkin's had played very well against Three Seasons," observed Smyth, "and they were sky high when they scored three in the first against us." It didn't take long for Ficarro's to puncture the Larkin balloon.

"When we came back, we destroyed them psychologically," said Smyth. "The outcome was never in doubt."

"I've noticed that nothing will knock this team off its stride," continued Smyth. "They don't panic. Get three runs down ... it didn't mean a thing. It didn't faze them. They have confidence in themselves. They knew they could do the job and they went out and did it."

Commenting on the pitching duel between Elberson and Mazzella in the playoff finals, Smyth remarked, "I always said in the first half of the '80s Clare Baxter was the best in the County, probably the best pitcher in the state." A longtime standout on the mound for Ficarro's, Baxter retired two years ago.

Behind Baxter, in Smyth's mind, were Elberson and Mazzella.

"It was Elberson and Mazzella for a couple of years. Now I feel it's Carol Ann." In the recent Trentonian Tournament, Smyth pointed out, Mazzella yielded just 13 runs in four games "against quality, quality teams."

Ewing Tennis Tournament Benefits Cancer Society

The Ewing Tennis League will run the Second Annual Ewing Open Doubles Tournament to benefit the Mercer County Chapter of the American Cancer Society. It will take place on September 13 to 22 in conjunction with Ewing Community Days on September 14 and 15. Sponsors for this doubles-only event are Prince Manufacturing, Penn Racquet Sports, and the Times of Trenton.

The tournament will feature Women's Doubles, Men's Doubles and Mixed Doubles. Matches will be played at Banchoff Park, Trenton State College, and Ewing High School. Each team is guaranteed at least two matches with a consolation tournament for losers in the first round. Last year's Ewing Open raised $1,000 for the American Cancer Society.

The tournament is open to tennis players of all abilities, and a Prince prize package will be given to winners of the main draw and consolation tournament.

The entry fee is $20 per team. Registration deadline is September 7. Anyone interested in participating can contact Ken Klek at 883-0906. Players can make check payable to the "Ewing Recreation Department" and mail to 1872 Pennington Road, Trenton 08618. Include name, address, and telephone number.

YMCA Offers Programs In Basketball, Swimming

The Princeton YMCA is accepting registrations for its fall adult basketball leagues. Intermediate and advanced intermediate teams play on Thursday evenings at the Hun School in Princeton.

Individuals can play pick up basketball at the Hun School on Thursdays from 7 to 10 p.m. Register now at the YMCA.

The YMCA is also accepting registrations for its Flying Fish swim team, which competes in dual meets against rival New Jersey YMCAs. The team is open to all interested swimmers 6 to 18 years old.

The team offers a competitive environment and is also USS sanctioned for additional competition. Qualified swimmers participate in state, regional and national competitions.

Time trials are October 7 and 8. A four-week pre-season stroke and turn clinic to prepare swimmers for the time trials begins September 9. For more information on these programs, call 497-YMCA.

Three Golds for Princeton Swimmer

"Thrilled to death," was the way Princeton resident Jane Skillman said she felt after winning three gold medals at the Pan Am Games held this month in Cuba.

Skillman won the 400 freestyle event in 4:13.69, the 800 freestyle in 8:43.26 and was a member of this country's winning 800 free relay team. All ber winning times were her best ever.

Next up for Skillman, who hopes to make the U.S. Olympic swim team, will be six months of training in preparation for the Olympic Trials to be held March 1 through 6 in Indianapolis.

After graduating in June from the Peddie School, Skillman has opted to postpone attending college for a full year until she decides what she wants to do in school. Her top choices are Texas and Stanford which claim two of the top college swimming teams in the nation.

Until then, Skillman, the daughter of Carol and Stepben Skillman, 25 Knoll Drive, says she will take some courses at Rider College "to keep my brain going."

ART

Several American Styles Shown at State Museum

"American Views: Still-lifes, Landscapes, and People" is on extended view at the New Jersey State Museum. the exhibit includes works from the late 1800s to the 1910s by John Frederick Peto, John Twachtman, Childe Hassam, William Glackens and Van Dearing Perrine.

Peto is represented by four works which illustrate both the range of his subject matter and the process of thinking and painting by this Philadelphian, who was trained at the Pennsylvania Academy.

Artists Hassam and Twachtman each present landscapes in very different ways. Twachtman's 1880's landscape is a soft atmospheric painting; the visual sensation is more of the moisture-laden air and the time of the year rather than the place. Hassam's painting of an April day by the Seine — painted with typical impressionist brushstrokes, is unmistakably of Paris; the other is a cedar-shingled cottage.

William Glackens' 1909 painting celebrates a warm summer afternoon by the sea in Rhode Island; Perrine's 1917 painting, a view of Manhattan from the Palisades, speaks of simpler times.

Landscape and landscape fragments from the late 1910s through the 1930s are also on exhibition. A beech tree in a 1917 watercolor by Charles Burchfield reveals the artist's anthropomorphic view of nature; Thomas Hart Benton's New England pond expresses his assimilation of European aesthetics, and William Palmer's tempera depicts the bleakness of the Depression, but not without hope: the gather storm forewarns of rain and new life.

In Chorus Line, Reginald Marsh presents a backstage view of a rehearsal. There is, as in most of his work from this period, a physical closeness, interaction and interrelationship among his protagonists. In contrast, his 1952 painting, Atomic Blonde, shows separateness and alienation; the colors are grayed, the atmosphere murky.

Raphael Soyer's Window Shoppers shows a crowded 1938 street. His view of the street and its people is warm and bemused.

the New Jersey State Museum is located at 205 West State Street in Trenton. It is open Tuesday through Saturday, 9 a.m. to 4:45 p.m.; Sunday noon to 5. Museum admission is free. Call 292-6464 for more information.

Human Being in Art

Noted realist painter Mel Leipzig will present a free slide lecture on "The Artist's Conception of Human Beings from Pre-Historic Times to the Present." The talk will be given on Tuesday, September 24, at 11:15 a.m. in Room 110 of the Communications Center on Mercer County Community College's West Windsor campus at 1200 Old Trenton Road.

Mr. Leipzig is professor of painting and art history at MCCC. He has exhibited widely, including one-man shows at the Trenton City Museum, The Gallery Henoch in New York City, Johnson & Johnson in New Brunswick, the Centre for the Arts in Southern New Jersey, the New Jersey State Museum, The Montclair Art Museum, the New York Six Gallery and at Cooper Union. His work is in many permanent collections, including those of the New Jersey State Museum, AT&T, the Montclair Art Museum, the Yale Art Gallery, the Cooper-Hewit Museum for the Deocrative Arts, and the White House.

New Hope Arts Festival Plans Exhibit & Events

The New Hope, Pa. Chamber of Commerce announces "Showcase '91 - The Arts of New Hope" on Friday through Monday, September 6 through 9, a four-day celebration of the resort's arts and crafts, with free exhibitions, demonstrations, workshops and studio tours plus music, dance, street entertainment and children's programs.

For this sixth annual weekend gala, more than 70 New Hope shops, galleries, restaurants and inns will feature not only noted Bucks County painters, sculptors and photographers but also world-wide artists in ceramics, glass, wood and jewelry, who are represented by the many New Hope galleries and stores.

"Virtually all New Hope galleries are scheduling special shows," says Showcase co-chairman Ana Leland, "and the Showcase committee is arranging for artists without local galleries to display their works in the New Hope shops, restaurants and inns, so that visitors will find art everywhere. Stores that sell clothing, gifts or home furnishings will have window and indoor displays of art with all of the works for sale."

Co-chairman Nancy Craig points out that the Showcase '91 weekend will provide street entertainments, roving performers, and a complete schedule of outdoor programs for children at the new Ferry Street Landing on the Delaware River. These will include children's face-painting, tables for creating crazy hats, unique flags and balloon animals. There will also be a Kids Art Show with prizes.

A highlight of the opening day, Friday, September 6, will be that evening's New Hope Showcase Auction, for which local merchants provide scores of items to be auctioned at bargain prices — to benefit the New Hope Arts Commission.

RELIGION

Services Are Listed For the High Holy Days

The schedule of High Holy Day services have been announced by area Jewish congregations.

Cantor Robert Freedman and guest Rabbi Reuven Kimelman will conduct religious services at the Jewish Center of Princeton. Rosh Hashana will begin on Sunday, September 8, with the evening service starting at 7. Morning services for the New Year 5752 will be on Monday and Tuesday, September 8 and 10, at 8:45 a.m.

Kol Nidre will begin on Tuesday, September 17 at 6:45 p.m. Yom Kippur services will be held starting the morning of Wednesday, September 19, at 8:45 a.m. High Holiday children's services will be held on Monday, September 9, beginning at 10 a.m. and Wednesday, September 18, at 2.

Rabbi Kimelman, associate professor of Talmud and Midrash at Brandeis University, is also senior scholar of the national Jewish Center for Learning and Leadership. Previously, Rabbi Kimmelman was five-college professor of Judaic studies at Amherst College. He has also taught at Mt. Holyoke, Smith, Trinity and Williams Colleges as well as the Jewish Theological Seminary and the Hebrew University in Jerusalem.

Rabbi Kimmelman earned his Ph.D. from Yale University in religious studies. He also holds master's degrees from Yale and from the Jewish Theological Seminary (JTS) and bachelor's degrees from both Columbia University and JTS. He has held High Holiday pulpits in St. Louis, Toledo, New Haven, Springfield, Mass., Puerto Rico and Boston.

Information about tickets for nonmembers, membership, congregational activities and Religious School programs can be obtained by calling the Jewish Center office at 921-0100.

The congregation of Temple Micah, the liberal reform congregation in Lawrenceville, has also announced its 1991 High Holy Day services. Rabbi Albert Ginsburgh will lead the services, assisted by Cantor Alfred Beck and organist Patricia Wight. Services, which are open to the public, are held in the Lawrenceville Presbyterian Church on Main Street, Lawrenceville.

The Rosb Hashana evening service will be held Sunday, September 9, at 8:30, followed by a New Year's party. Rosh Hashana morning service will take place Monday, September 9, at 11. Yom Kippur evening (Kol Nidre) will be Tuesday, September 17, at 8:30, and Yom Kippur morning on Wednesday, September 18, at 11. There will be a memorial (Yiskor) service Wednesday, September 18, at 12:30.

Similarly, the Jewish Community Center of Belle Mead, 253 Griggstown Road, an affiliate of the Reconstructionist Movement, has announced its High Holiday schedule. On Sunday, September 8, at 8 p.m. Erev Rosh Hashana will be held. The Rosh Hashana morning service will be Monday, September 9, at 10. A Rosh Hashana traditional morning service with more Hebrew, full Haftorah and music, will be held Tuesday, September 10, at 10.

Shabbat evening service is scheduled on Friday, September 13, at 7:45 p.m. On Tuesday, September 17, at 6:30 p.m. will be Kol Nidre, followed on Wednesday, September 18, at 10 with Yom Kippur morning services, with Yiskar at 11:30, Mincha at 5, and Neila at 6:30.

The junior congregation, ages 3 to 9, will meet on the first day of Rosh Hashana and for the Yom Kippur morning service. This is by reservation only. Call Bonita at 874-8803 to hold a spot for your child. Space is limited.

The Jewish Community Center's High Holiday services are open to the public at no charge. Call the temple office at (908) 359-0420 for more information.

Adult Education Program Offered at Jewish Center

The Jewish Center is expanding its adult education offerings to include a lecture series, film festival, scholar-in-residence program, learner's service, bagel academies, mini courses, Hebrew language and foundations of Judaism classes, in addition to its regular ongoing activities.

A series of lectures begins on Sunday, October 13, at 7:30 p.m. and continues on the first Sunday of each month through May 3. The series features scholarly treatments of Jewish texts, history and liturgy, with teachers from the Jewish Theological Seminary, Reconstructionist Rabbinical College, Princeton University, and others. Speakers include Prof. Natalie Davis, October 23; Prof. Barry Holtz, November 3; Prof. Benjamin Gampel, December 8; Prof. Rela Monson, January 5; Dr. Gertrude Dubrovsky, February 9; Dr. Kenneth Libo, March 1; Rabbi Joel Roth, April 12; and Dr. Sherry Rosen, May 3.

The Film Festival features a potpourri of documentary and feature films on Jewish subjects. Films include Child of the Ghetto and Mirocle of Intervole Avenue on Sunday, November 24, 7:30 p.m.; The Wannsee Conference on December 15; A Day in Worsaw, Jewish Life in Vilna and Tevye on January 12; and The Impossible Spy on January 26.

The scholar-in-residence program, sponsored by the Ellen M. Egger fund, is scheduled from Friday, January 31 through Sunday, February 2. The program features Sbalom Paul, the first Honorary Fellow of the Saul Leiberman Institute for Talmudic Research at the Hebrew University in Jerusalem. Dr. Paul will focus on Genesis, and use modern Biblical scholarship to shed light on the Bible's Near Eastern sources and on its meaning for us today.

Learner's Service offers participants an opportunity to learn about the Shabbat morning service and individual prayers in an informal setting. Services are scheduled for Saturdays, October 19, November 16, and December 14.

The bagel academies are informal courses led by congregants on Sunday mornings from 9:45 to 11:15. Fall bagel academy classes are: "The Book of Daniel" on November 3, 10, 17 and 24, and "Healthy Jewish Cooking with Dr. Bob Karp; The Shallower Roots of Kashrut" on November 3 and 10 only. Call the Jewish Center office at 921-0100 for locations of these classes.

Mini-courses offer the opportunity to study on a particular topic, and to meet regularly with a Jewish scholar. The fall mini-course will be: "The Culture of the Lower East Side: A Variety of Discourses" with Prof. Leslie Fishbein, an associate professor of American studies at Rutgers University. The course will be held November 6, 20, December 4 and 18.

Also new this year is the offering of semester long courses on Hebrew language, prayerbook Hebrew, life cycle and holidays, and Jewish history surveys. Each of these classes will be offered for two 10-week terms. The fee for these classes is $50 per term.

Also offered is a group for interfaith couples. the group will meet Tuesdays, October 15 through November 19 at 7:30 p.m. The fee is $50 per couple.

Ongoing adult educaiton activities include Torah study session on Saturday mornings from 9 to 10 with Sid Gray, provocateur; Hebrew reading and discussion group (Chug Ivri), adult Bar/Bat Mitzvah classes, Torah and Haftorah cantillation, and Israeli folk dancing, Mondays 7:30 to 10:30, led by Ruth Markoe.

The public is invited to attend all these programs. A donation of $3 is requested from nonmembers for most events. For further information, call the Jewish Center office at 921-0100.

Bulletin Notes

The Lutheran Church of the Messiah will conduct the last worship at its 9:30 summer worship time this Sunday. Pastor John M. Goerss will deliver the sermon, and Holy Communion will be celebrated.

On Sunday, September 8, worship returns to 10:30 a.m. with Sunday school and bible classes at 9. The adult class will begin a new study series centered around Yeshua, a 10-part video production by the Lutheran Laymen's League which features the life of Jesus Christ set in the Holy Land. The class will meet in the lounge of the new parish building, which will be dedicated on Sunday, October 6, at 10:30 a.m.

The adult choir will begin rehearsal Thursday, September 5, at 8 p.m. For more information call Pastor Goerss at 924-3642.

The Princeton United Methodist Church will resume its fall schedule this Sunday with two worship services at 9 and 11 a.m. Dr. James H. Harris Jr., senior pastor, will speak on "To Hear Again — for the First Time."

The Chancel Choir, under the direction of Dr. Lynne Ransom, will sing "Rise and Shine" by Follett during the 11 a.m. service. Adult education will be held at 10 a.m. Nursery care is provided.

The Albright Class luncheon will be held at 12:15 p.m. and the Singles' Fellowship will have a planning brunch also at 12:15 p.m. The teen choir will rehearse at 5 p.m. followed by a picnic at 6.

For information call 924-2613.

Princeton Church of Christ is offering free classes entitled "Learn to Speak English by Reading tbe Bible." Classes are offered morning, afternoon and evening, Monday through Thursday throughout the year. Each semester is six weeks long. Classes will emphasize understanding and pronunciation by sound in order to help students speak without an accent.

The next session begins Monday, September 9, and ends October 31. For information call 921-7654 or (908) 463-1127.

in the event, which begins at 9 a.m. and features competition plowing and driving, pony rides, exhibition hitches, and a children's craft program.

Fifteen teams of big work horses from New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Maryland are entered in the competition, which includes Fine Plowing held at 10 and Obstacle Course Logging held at 2. Teamsters who rate best in these classes will receive trophies, ribbons and checks. Visitors age 16 and older can try their hand at plowing in a novice class held at 10:45. Experienced teamsters without hitches may compete in the Old Timer class at 10:30; they will plow with a Howell Farm hitch.

Children's activities include pony and cart rides from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. and a craft program, "Whirligigs" from noon to 3. Piglets, calves and other farm animals can be seen.

Beginning at noon, hungry plowmen and plowwomen can lunch on roast pork sandwiches, a chicken barbecue, Howell Farm potatoes and sweet corn and Kosher franks. Noontime fun also includes exhibition hitches, ribbon pinning and opportunities for visitors to see Jersey-made plows displayed by the Agricultural Museum of the State of New Jersey.

Howell Farm is located on Valley Road in Hopewell Township. Parking and admission are free. The raindate is Saturday, September 7.

Bands, Bikes and Cars Set for Hopewell Parade

Hopewell will celebrate its Centennial with a parade through the Borough at 1 p.m. on Labor Day.

The A.O.H. Pipe Band, the Crescent Temple String Band and the Blawenburg Dixieland Band, as well as more than 15 floats (many with music), antique bicycles, horses, and neighborhood marching units, will be featured.

Highlighting the parade will be more than a dozen antique cars and other vehicles, which will carry many of the people who are a part of Hopewell's living history. The Hopewell Museum on East Broad Street will also be open to visitors from 2 to 4 p.m.

For more information, call Nancy Espenhorst, 466-2047, or Tery Solomon, 466-9460.

Fall Rummage Sale

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad will hold their fall rummage sale on Friday, September 13, from 5 to 9 p.m., and Saturday, September 14, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the squad house on North Harrison Street.

All donations are welcome and are tax deductible. Anyone wishing to donate to the rummage sale can contact Cindy Clausen at 924-6928 or Mary Van Horn at 924-4950.

The September regular meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary will be held Monday, September 23, at 8 p.m. President Patsy Bianco will preside.

Adult School Schedules ESOL Courses at PHS

Registration for ESOL classes (English for Speakers of Other Languages) will be held Thursday, September 19, at 7 p.m. in the cafeteria of Princeton High School.

It is necessary to register in person and to take a placement interview at that time. Seven levels are offered, from beginning to advanced. Since classes are limited, prospective students are advised to arrive early.

Classes will be held at the high school Tuesday evenings from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m., from October 1 through December 3.

Cost is $35 plus books and materials.

For further information, call the Adult School secretary at 683-1101.

OBITUARIES

Marion Goldey Hartz of Rossmoor, Monroe Township, died August 26 at Princeton Medical Center.

Born in Trenton, Mrs. Hartz lived in Princeton for many years before moving to Rossmoor. She was on the staff of the Institute for Advanced Study from its early days in Princeton until her retirement. She had previously been employed at W.M. Dickenson Company in Trenton.

Mrs. Hartz was a member of Trinity Church for more than 50 years.

She is survived by her husband, Walter A. Hartz; a sister, Helen G. Delany of Princeton; two nieces; two great-nieces and their children.

The service will be held Thursday at 2 at Trinity Church, the Rev. Leslie C. Smith, rector, officiating. Burial will follow in Trinity-All Saints' Cemetery. Arrangements are under the direction of the Kimble Funeral Home.

Memorial contributions may be made to Trinity Church Radio Services, 33 Mercer Street, Princeton 08540, or to a charity of the donor's choice.

James V. Quick, 81, former assistant postmaster at the Princeton Post Office, died August 24 at the Kimball Medical Center in Lakewood.

Born in Princeton, Mr. Quick lived in Princeton most of his life before moving to Crestwood Village in the Whiting section of Manchester Township eight years ago. He was assistant postmaster at the Princeton Post Office for 40 years, retiring 26 years ago.

Surviving are his wife, Grace E. Seabridge Quick; two sons, Robert and Harley, both of Boseman, Mont., and a grandson.

A graveside service was held Tuesday at Princeton Cemetery.

Helen Josten Harding, 90, died August 20 at Princeton Medical Center. Mrs. Harding, the wife of the late Ernest A. Harding, State Deputy Commissioner of Education, had been a resident of Princeton since 1935.

After graduating from Montclair State College, she taught elementary school in Plainfield and was a violinist with the Plainfield Symphony Orchestra.

During her years in Princeton, Mrs. Harding was active with various music organizations and served as a librarian at Princeton High School and the Princeton Public Library. Later she taught brailing and brailed books for both the Princeton Unit of Recording for the Blind and the Library of Congress.

Surviving are two daughters, Shirley H. Robinson of Princeton and Barbara H. Lamb of Lake Placid, N.Y., four grandchildren; six great-grandchildren; and a sister, Harriet Josten, of Erwinna, Pa.

Graveside services in New Brunswick were private. Arrangements were under the direction of Kimble Funeral Home, Princeton.

In lieu of flowers, donations may be made to The Princeton Unit, Recording for the Blind, Inc., 36-A Hibben Road, Princeton 08540 or to The American Red Cross, Meals-on-Wheels Program, 182 North Harrison Street, Princeton 08540.

William H. Walker, longtime mayor of Hopewell Borough, died August 23 at Princeton Medical Center. He was 78.

Mr. Walker spent eight years on Hopewell Borough Council and was also a member of the Board of Education. He was elected mayor in 1976 and held the position for the next 12 years. He was also employed by New Jersey Manufacturers Insurance Co. for 41 years, retiring as an assistant secretary and director of rehabilitation in 1979.

Born and raised in Newark, Mr. Walker was educated in Newark public schools and at Trinity College, Hartford, Conn., where he was a member of the Sigma Nu fraternity. He enlisted in the U.S. Army Air Force at the outbreak of World War II, serving as a sergeant major. He was honorably discharged in 1945.

He was a resident of Packanack Lake, Morrisville, Pa., before moving to Hopewell Borough in 1956. He was a member of the New Jersey Conference of Mayors, the Mayors Advisory Council to the Board of Chosen Freeholders, the Mercer County Mayors Association and the Mayors Association of New Jersey.

He held top positions in all of these organizations, serving as director of the state conference for three years, chairman of the advisory council for five years, chairman of the Mercer County panel for two years, and vice president of the New Jersey association for two years. He was a former member of the Hopewell Valley Golf Club and the Orpheus Club of Newark, and he also belonged to All Saints' Church, Princeton.

Surviving are his wife, Helen Ludeke Walker; two sons, William H. Walker II of Pennington, and Gregory J. Walker of Lake Hopatcong; a sister, Florence W. Publicover, and a brother, Lewis M. Walker, both of Greenville, S.C.; two grandchildren, Sean Walker and Danielle Walker; and several nieces and nephews.

A memorial Eucharist was scheduled to be celebrated this Wednesday, August 28, at 2 p.m. at All Saints' Church, All Saints' Road, the Rev. A. Orley Swartzentruber officiating with the Rev. David L. Stokes and the Rev. George Alexander.

In lieu of flowers, memorial contributions may be made to Trinity College, Hartford, Conn. 06106, or to All Saints' Church, All Saints' Road, Princeton 08540.

JIM FIRESTONE LEADS THE FIRESTONE TEAM WITH $8 MILLION IN PRINCETON SALES THIS YEAR ALONE!

Give Yourself The Firestone Advantage

JIM FIRESTONE

EXQUISITE PRINCETON FRENCH PROVINCIAL! Set on a lovely two-plus acre setting on one of Princeton's most desirable streets, this exciting Firestone offering features an impressive slate entry foyer, richly detailed rooms for entertaining, and European elegance throughout its impressive 4400+ square foot size. You'll enjoy romantic moods in the attractive master suite on the second floor, and lazy summer afternoons on the bluestone terrace next to the pool and very special brick poolhouse. 5 bedrooms, 3+ baths, 2 fireplaces, and a 3-car garage for your antique sports cars are just a few of the special features of this unique offering. If you are someone who expects the best, do call for further information and a personal inspection. $950,000

GAIL FIRESTONE

MAGNIFICENT PRINCETON WILLIAMSBURG COLONIAL is set on 2.33 acres of woodland with beautiful mature landscaping. Inside is a warm slate entry foyer with a front-to-back sunken living room with fireplace. The family room also has a fireplace and built-in bookcases with a French door to the flagstone patio. The formal dining room is accented with grasscloth and is convenient to the recently expanded eat-in-kitchen which has top-of-the-line appliances and a great breakfast area. Upstairs, are four ample bedrooms, including a step-down master suite plus room for expansion of another suite above the garage. It's a real find in this market, a house with character and priced to sell. $649,000

ON THE PRINCETON RIDGE — Imagine yourself in this modern Cape Cod with space, style, privacy and glass-walled additions looking out over 2 beautifully landscaped acres. It features a living room with fireplace and built-in bookshelves, a dining room with a window wall on the woods, a great room-library with built-in cabinets and bookcases, and a master bedroom with California-style closets. Call your Firestone agent today. $429,000

A BRICK VICTORIAN IN PRINCETON WITH INTERESTING CONTEMPORARY ACCENTS. Massive stone fireplace in the living room, expansive dining room, eat-in-kitchen with large central island and a den, too. Four bedrooms and 3½ baths plus beautiful views framed by architect inspired windows.$299,000

PRINCETON'S RIVERSIDE AREA COLONIAL CLOSE TO TOWN AND GOWN. Spaciousness is the keynote of this impressive home, from the living room with picture window to its family room with fireplace and eat-in kitchen. Upstairs are five large bedrooms and 2 full baths. Add to this a finished basement, and an inground pool for summer entertainment and you can see why this colonial is priced at $469,000

A FINE OLDER PRINCETON COLONIAL CLOSE TO TOWN AND WITH A CLASSIC CENTER HALL FLOOR PLAN. Spacious front-to-back living room with fireplace, heated sun porch, formal dining room, and ample kitchen. There's a total of 4-5 bedrooms in all and four full baths. "Classic and graceful" are appropriate words that apply. $390,000

FIRESTONE IS EXPANDING — AGENT POSITIONS AVAILABLE. Jim Firestone, a former college teacher, personally instructs agents in how to sell in the Princeton market. This is no motivational course taught by a distant manager, but a proven blueprint for success. In this so-called recessionary market, Jim sold 24 bomes himself since December. Come learn from an expert. All replies confidential.
